

Permits Required To Serve Foods

Health Officer Gives Standards Of Sanitation Establishments Must Uphold

Food permits are being issued by the County Health Department for the coming year. These permits are issued to cafes, sandwich stands, soda founts, and meat markets, and there are about 80 such establishments in Shelby County.

Before a permit can be issued by the Health Department it will be necessary that all requirements of the State Health Department regulating these establishments be complied with. Also it will be necessary for each establishment to have its permit prior to October 1st, in order that they may purchase their privilege licenses for the next year.

In order to protect the public health, it is necessary that all repeated service vessels, such as glasses, cups, spoons, knives, and forks, etc., be thoroughly sterilized after each use. For this purpose an adequate amount of hot water must be available at all times. Water used by these establishments must come from a supervised public supply from an approved source.

Waste disposal is of considerable importance and must be done in an approved manner.

All establishments have been recently inspected and the operators thoroughly familiarized with the regulations and instructed in regard to the proper care of their equipment.—E. F. Sloan, M. D., County Health Officer.

ELLIOTT-ROBINSON WEDDING LAST SUNDAY AT ALEX CITY

Mr. Glenn Elliott, of Montevallo, and Miss Mildred Robinson, of Carrollton, Georgia, were married last Sunday in Alexander City. Only a few intimate friends witnessed the ceremony.

Mr. Elliott and his bride were formerly students at the University of Alabama. Before going to the University, Mr. Elliott was a student at Gulf Coast Military Academy, at Gulfport, Miss.

Mrs. Vickery Died Tuesday Morning In New Orleans

Mrs. E. B. Vickery, a resident of Montevallo, died Tuesday morning at the home of her son, Dr. Eugene Vickery, in New Orleans. For the past six years Mrs. Vickery had lived here with her daughter, Miss Catherine Vickery, member of the faculty of Alabama College. Before coming here she lived at Dahlonga, Georgia. The only survivors are the son, Dr. Eugene Vickery, and the daughter, Miss Catherine Vickery.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at Dahlonga. Several intimate friends of the family in Montevallo attended the services.

Mrs. Vickery was an aunt of Miss Lois McMullen, a former teacher in Alabama College.

LEGION AUXILIARY MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary was held Thursday, August 18, at the home of Mrs. P. N. Lee, at Aldrich.

Mrs. P. D. Pendleton presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. Appleton.

Mrs. M. P. Jeter made an interesting report of the State Convention held in Montgomery.

Mrs. Lee served delightful refreshments of frozen salad and ice tea to the following:

Mrs. M. P. Jeter, Mrs. J. I. Reid, Mrs. B. B. Fancher, Mrs. Lena Duran, Mrs. A. E. Baumgartner, Mrs. W. M. Wyatt, Mrs. P. D. Pendleton and Miss Jordan, of Georgia, a guest at the home of Mrs. Lee.

Hoffman's Store Is Made Larger

Remodeling Includes New Display Windows and More Space; Stock Also Increased

Having completed an extensive remodeling program extending from front to rear, including the erection of a new addition at the back, the Hoffman Store in Montevallo is now fully ready for business again.

The new and much enlarged plate glass windows make a beautiful display of merchandise.

New shelving, display cabinets and counters throughout the store make it possible to arrange the hundreds of items of merchandise so they may be easily seen by customers who go through the store.

In the addition several new departments will be found. Here is contained the most modern fixtures for displaying the new shoe department, ladies ready-to-wear, ladies coats, etc. A beautiful dressing room is provided in this department.

"We are gratified at the growth our business has shown in the two years we have been in Montevallo," said Mr. Ellis Hoffman, proprietor. "In this time we have so completely outgrown our former store that we have found it necessary to practically double our space. This means, of course, that our stock of merchandise has been enlarged in proportion, all of which makes it possible for us to assure our customers a double capacity for serving their needs."

Coincident with the remodeling of the store Hoffman's is just now offering a big special sale of school supplies. This includes not only the small items the school children will need for their desk and schoolroom work, but also the more important items of school shoes and clothes. You will receive a cordial welcome when you visit Hoffman's, and the management will be glad to have you bring the children along with you for a look through this great new store.

SAM LITT OF MAYLENE DIED IN BIRMINGHAM

Sam Litt, age 57, prominent merchant and business man of Maylene, died in a Birmingham infirmary Monday, following an operation for appendicitis. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lilly Litt. Burial was in Kenneth Israel Cemetery.

Mr. Litt has been operating a store at Maylene for several years.

Town Schools Begin Tuesday, September 5

The high school and elementary schools of Montevallo open for the 1938-39 session on next Tuesday, September 6. All teachers of the county will attend the institute in Columbiana on next Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Cain and Betty attended the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John Moore at McCalla Sunday.

P. M. Cain, Jr. is visiting in Bessemer and will attend the Rainbow Assembly Dance at Pineview Beach.

Clubs of County Attend Meeting

Farm and Home Week, Camps, and Leadership Schools Included In Activities

News among the Home Demonstration Clubs includes the yearly Farmers' and Homemakers' Week at Auburn, the annual camp for club women at Oak Mountain State Park.

Shelby County club women had an outstanding part on the program during the Farmers' and Homemakers' week. Mrs. Earnest G. Wyatt, Klein Club member and winner of the county public speaking contest, entered the state contest, the subject of which was "Better Schools for Rural America." Mrs. J. C. Rogers, of Ebenezer Club, the County Recreation Chairman, was the official delegate to the State Council of Home Demonstration Clubs. Mrs. Rogers was also in charge of a play presented by Shelby club women before a state-wide audience during the week's program. This play, "The Grass Grows Greener," was presented by the following club members: Mrs. J. C. Rogers, Mrs. Fred Johnson, and Mrs. Walter Howell, Ebenezer Club; Mrs. Robert Frost, Mrs. Max Allen, Miss Sue Ingram, and Miss Annie Laurie Ingram, Spring Creek Club. Mrs. Will Finley of Shelby, an outstanding poultry producer in the state, took part in a poultry discussion group conducted by Mr. John E. Ivey, extension poultry specialist, on the last day of the meeting.

Twenty Shelby County farm men and women registered during the week's program. The home agent conducted two tours through the experiment station and farms for the benefit of this group. Club women accompanying the home agent for the entire week's program (Turn to Page 3, Col. 3)

College Session Opens Sept. 7

Largest Freshman Class in History Of Institution Is Expected In 1938-39 Session

Advance enrollment at Alabama College promises the largest freshman class in the history of the institution for the 1938-39 session. The total advance registration is sharply in advance of last year, according to Dr. A. F. Harman, president.

Residence halls will open for students next Monday, Sept. 5, and the first faculty meeting will be held in Palmer Hall at 2 p.m. Registration of all students will take place Tuesday, and classes will begin Wednesday at 2 p.m.

Orientation activities the first week will be directed by Dr. Minnie L. Steckel, student counselor, assisted by the following organizations and their heads: Student Government Association, Kathleen Williams, Birmingham; Publications Board, Frances Douglas, Montgomery; Presidents' Council, Juanita Morgan, Albertville; Student Senate, Doris Condon, Opelika; Athletic Board, Ruth Weaver, Brewton; and the Y. W. C. A., Evelyn Gaines, Attalla.

Activities will include tests, physical examinations, and assemblies for lectures by college officials. Recreation will be provided in theatre, swimming and dancing parties, receptions and the presentation of "Echoes of College Night."

Students returning will find many improvements made during the summer months, including improvement to Bloch and Calkins Halls, the enlargement of the Hangar, and much painting and beautification.

U. D. C. MEETING

The General Josiah Gorgas Chapter, U. D. C., will meet Thursday, September 8, at 3:30 p.m., at the home of the president, Mrs. C. H. Mahaffey. Meetings of the chapter have been suspended during the summer season. The meeting next Thursday will resume the regular schedule, and all members are urged to attend.

Labor Day Picnic Near Montevallo

Celebration Will be Held at Richards Schoolhouse, On Road To Marvel

A momentous farmer-labor rally, celebrating the cooperation of farmer and laborer groups, is announced for Labor Day, next Monday, September 5, to be held at Richards Schoolhouse, located eight miles from Montevallo, on the Montevallo-Marvel Highway.

The occasion is being planned and sponsored by the Bibb County Farmers Union. It is expected that representatives of farmer and labor organizations in Shelby and Chilton Counties will attend and take part.

Opening of festivities is announced for nine o'clock in the morning. A full program of public speaking is arranged to begin at ten o'clock and continuing until after noon.

Speakers on the program will include many prominent figures in farmer and labor organizations, among them being:

Miss Pearl Rowe, of the Walker County Farmers Union. She is a former Home Demonstration Agent of Walker County.

Richard Linsley, member of the national executive board of the Agricultural, Cannery and Packing House Workers, C. I. O.

J. W. Heathcock and Hartford Knight, representatives of C. I. O. and the United Mine Workers of America.

Other speakers will include officers and members of the Executive Board of the Farmers Union in Alabama.

Everybody is invited to bring baskets for dinner on the grounds. There will be a free barbecue. Cold drinks will be sold on the grounds. Arrangements will be made to have a big dance as a part of the celebration.

A ladies soft ball game will be played at 2:30 p.m. After that will be a grand ball game between two strong teams of this district.

Home Clubs Plan Mattress Making

"Let's use our surplus cotton and sleep on better beds," say Shelby County Home Demonstration women.

You have been reading about Alabama's mattress making campaign and now we are ready to do something about it. An effort is being made to reach every community in the county by instructing local community leaders in mattress making methods. Community leaders and community centers where you may go to make your mattresses or to receive instructions will be announced later.

LEE AMUSEMENTS COMING NEXT WEEK

All right, boys and girls. All the fun is coming at once. On next Wednesday, the very day school opens, the Lee Amusement Co. will pitch their tents in Montevallo for a ten-day session.

The Lee attractions will be located at its usual place next to Elliott's. Mr. Lee was here Wednesday making arrangements for his show. In addition to the things he had last year, he said he has added a few new gadgets that are more fun than a barrel of monkeys.

Isn't it fine of Mr. Lee to bring his show here just at the time to take some of the blues out of going back to school!

MONTEBRIER CLUB

The members of Montebrier Club had a party at the club house last Thursday night. Sandwiches and ice tea were served. Dancing was enjoyed, with music furnished by the Bama Skippers.

No More Idle Thursdays

Last Thursday concluded the series of Thursday half-holidays for this summer. The stores will be open every business day from now on.

However, we will have a full holiday next Monday—Labor Day. Many local people will attend the Labor Day rally at Richards Schoolhouse, 8 miles from Montevallo, on the Marvel Highway.

Campus Improvements

New projects of improvement on Alabama College campus continue to appear. This week a brick-paved walk is being laid from the front of the Elementary Training school building to the sidewalk.

Improvement at the Sharp place will carry on to include the vacant lot extending to the street that runs in front of the Elementary School.

Grass cutters are busy everywhere. When the students return to College next week they will find many pleasant surprises in things that have been done to improve the campus. While they have been away for their summer vacation, they will realize that somebody has been here to carry on the job of providing for their comfort and pleasure.

If the Town is going to keep pace with the College in cleaning up, there must be a lot of weeds cut in the next week.

Sprucing Up Business Houses

Several stores in Montevallo are "sprucing up" for the fall business season by putting on new coats of paint and making alterations and improvements in their facilities.

Tatum Chevrolet Company has made a re-arrangement of their show rooms, offices and parts department, much improving the appearance and convenience of the place.

Jeter Merchandise Company in renewing their store with a fresh application of paint.

Hoffman's Store has just finished a complete renovation with the building of new show windows and a large addition to the building.

The place formerly occupied by Ike Nathews is undergoing a complete change of front and interior preparatory to opening the Little Shop of Personal Service by Miss Ethel Reasoner. This will be an exclusive shop for women.

The Givhan Building, formerly occupied by Alabama Power Company, has been done over to provide offices for Mr. Pete Givhan and the Warrior Water Company.

Bob Galloway has diked up a nice little eat-and-drink business in the old Warrior Water Company place next to Whaley's.

Robert Butler has put the Montevallo Cash Store in a new dress of paint and will make other improvements inside.

The Montevallo Times is ready to begin expansion of its shop and office quarters in the Masonic Building.

The Remarkable Record of Senator J. M. Bonner

Selection of Senator J. Miller Bonner by Governor Frank Dixon as his legal advisor is hailed with general approval over the state.

This selection removes from the State Senate one who has been an outstanding leader for a long time. Last week Alabama Magazine secured from Senator Bonner a retrospective statement concerning his Senate career. This statement deserves to be read and pondered by every citizen of Alabama.

He said:

"Naturally, my thought is in retrospect. When I recall that I have served in the Senate longer than any other man in the history of Alabama, I find myself wondering if that service has been worthwhile to the people of my state; if the record I have written will stand up under cold, impartial scrutiny and justify the conclusion, 'well done.' Others may answer. But may I not review that record just briefly?

"I have fought for prohibition with a zeal that has grown stronger year by year.

"I have been a Black Belter always and have helped kill numerous reapportionment bills. But I have never voted against one that approximately met the requirements of the Constitution. I have said repeatedly that I would vote for such a bill—but no such bill has been introduced.

"I have voted with the low tax and economy group consistently.

"I have voted against every bill to increase my own salary.

"I have never asked any governor for a position for myself or for any member of my family.

"While a member of the Senate, I have never asked for any pardon.

"I have fought earnestly for a free press. (He was a leader in the fight that killed the Graves press-muzzler of 1927.)

"I have tried always to be a friend to schools and agriculture.

"I have tried to be fair to capital and just to labor.

"I voted for the social security program now a part of our laws.

"I have never introduced a local bill.

"Since 1923 I have refused to follow the iniquitous custom of legislating by senatorial courtesy.

"I have never sought the 'cabbage patch,' which is to say that I have never run from any record vote.

"I have been independent, free lance, bound to and controlled by no group or interest.

"I have found courage to be the rarest virtue in politics.

"I voted against the recent bill to increase the pay of judges, already the highest paid group in the state.

"I voted to unmask the Klan.

"I have been a partisan, a rather fierce partisan perhaps. But I have learned to respect the opposition. And I have found in the camp of the opposition many of my most devoted friends. This makes me happy.

"I have cast possibly ten thousand votes in the Senate. Necessarily I have made many mistakes, for I am mere human. But my record is written. I would not change it if I could.

"I turn from the Senate with a feeling of sadness. But I am glad for the opportunity to have served there, and I am grateful to those who gave me that opportunity."

HARDY RIDDLE AND TALLADEGA

D. Hardy Riddle, president pro tem of the senate of the Alabama legislature, has surrendered his position to become judge of probate of Talladega, to succeed the late E. A. Hammett, one of the ablest probate judges this state has produced. Thus the speaker of the house, the Hon. Harry Walker, of Limestone, falls into line as a potential successor to the governor, the elected lieutenant-governor having died some time ago. Mr. Riddle, in an ill-advised moment, consented to run for governor last spring when there was no sound reason why he should run. Naturally in all the circumstances, he was beaten in an open field. But his defeat did not prejudice his position as a logical successor to Judge Hammett. It is natural that Governor Graves should have decided to appoint him in view of the close relationship between them. — Montgomery Advertiser.

Economic Highlights

From INDUSTRIAL NEWS REVIEW

The business picture has been marred by some unfavorable factors lately. But, taking it by and large, the outlook for steady if slow improvement seems to remain good.

One bad element has been renewed weakening in the commodity price structure. The values of wheat and other farm futures have tended to decline, in spite of efforts to hold them at stable levels. There have been no sharp breaks, however, and general opinion believes that prices will soon strengthen.

Also bad has been the chaotic situation abroad. Hitler seems to be playing the old game of "bluff Czechoslovakia" again. Foreign currencies, notably the franc and the pound, have lost ground in their relation to the dollar. But most authorities regard all this as being of little importance. They think a general war in the immediate future is unlikely, largely due to the economic weakness of the totalitarian states, and that matters abroad will continue about as they have during the past two or three years, with "crises" appearing periodically, making the headlines, and then dropping into obscurity.

So far as figures are concerned, the domestic situation is good. Everything seems to be present that is needed for a stable recovery movement. In 1937 recession resulted in production falling behind consumption. Merchants large and small reduced their inventories to the minimum. Buying was on a hand-to-mouth basis, both because of hard times and because of the expectation that sharp price reductions must occur. Today, with consumption of perishable goods rising, and with the government's latest emergency spending program putting a spark of life into the long-paralyzed durable goods industries, commerce is being forced to replenish its stocks. This is proven by the Federal Reserve Board's index of industrial production, which made its first gain of the year in June, and which is now five or six points above that level.

Some briefs of interest follow:

Steel: Operations have held to a fair level, and substantial fall improvement is expected.

Future commitments are good.

Motors: As is always true in mid-summer, production is now almost nil. But some makers are planning more of a splurge with their 1939 cars than they thought was wise a few months ago. Then general upturn in business and sentiment has encouraged them.

Electric Power: Production, when seasonal adjustments are made, is at a good level. Outlook indicates that fall consumption will be close to the 1937 level. On the adverse side, sentiment in the industry is at a low ebb, due to politics.

Agriculture: As mentioned above, prices have weakened. On the other hand, the chances are that the farmer's cash income for major crops will be reasonably satisfactory this year—though prices will be lower, yields will be higher, especially in the case of grains.

Employment: Latest figures which have any pretense to authority indicate that there has been a fair amount of re-employment by industry, and that material gains will be made after Labor Day. On the other hand, at least 10,000,000 people are still out of work, and there seems to be small chance of most of them finding jobs, unless a business revival of much greater intensity than anyone anticipates occurs.

Securities: Turnover on the stock exchange has slowed somewhat. But prices have held their gains for the most part, and bullish sentiment is still uppermost. The market has become less influenced by European scares—there have been so many of them in the last few years, and so few have amounted to anything.

General Outlook: Most authorities agree that the recovery movement will continue into next spring. Few are willing to gamble an opinion on what will happen thereafter. The political situation is an unsettling factor, and will probably remain so. The government's fiscal policy remains the worst of all factors as the long view is concerned.

Mr. Roosevelt may succeed in defeating Senators George and Tydings, and Representative O'Connor—the three Congressmen who head the administration's "purge list." But even if he does, his troubles will not be over by any means.

That is the gist of political opinion on the President's recent tour. Reason: If these and other more or less anti-New Deal Democrats are beaten, it will be credited to White House intervention. Their thousands of followers will be bitter at the Roosevelt leadership. They will be eager to change the control of their party.

Furthermore, there is a growing feeling of restiveness among congressmen, including some of those who have been 100 per cent New Deal, because of what they regard as White House dictation. The prospect is that the President will have plenty of trouble getting his legislative program through next session, irrespective of what happens in the elections.

Paragraphic Pointers

Items From The Records

The biggest accomplishment in the past year in behalf of agriculture was the enactment by congress of the 1938 Agricultural Adjustment Act. With this law serving as both a foundation and a background there is being built a sounder and richer agriculture in Alabama, and in the nation, according to P. O. Davis, director of the Alabama Extension Service.

Section 3229 of the Code of Alabama now makes it unlawful for any person to sell or buy any domestic animal or domestic fowl between the hours of sunset and sunrise. The penalty is not less than $50 and not more than $500, to which may be added a hard labor sentence of not exceeding one year. This section does not apply to merchants or market men selling to customers. The law does apply to merchant or market men buying domestic animals and domestic fowls during the prohibited hours.

From the annual report of the State Comptroller for the year ending September 30, 1934, and the annual report for the year ending September 30, 1937, we ascertain these facts: It cost less to operate the office of State Treasurer in 1937 than it did in 1934. The expenditures of the Secretary of State were less in 1937 than in 1934. The same is true of the State Tax Commission, the Department of Archives and History, the Special Judiciary, the Military Department, the Banking Department, the Mining Department, the Highway Department, and the Educational Department. Less was also spent for the maintenance of the Confederate Soldiers' Home, the registration of voters and the arrest of absconding felons.

Through the Public Welfare Department 23,389 families in Alabama were given relief during the month of June. This amount expended was $249,369, contributed by the federal, state and county governments on a three-way basis.

There is a law on the statute books of Alabama which prohibits printing names on the official ballot for a general election of independent candidates who fail to qualify as such before the first Tuesday in May. This is an amendment to Section 426 of the Code and was passed by the legislature in 1935.

Almost half of the cast iron pipe produced in the United States is made in Alabama.

Hairy vetch is the outstanding winter legume for Alabama. It is adapted to practically every soil type, and withstands our winters. It is not difficult to succeed with this crop. Purple vetch, Tangier peas, and Canadian field peas should not be used because they are not sufficiently cold resistant.

OUT OF The Waste Basket

By THE SWEEPER

Status Quo!

Speaking of typographical errors and keeping in spelling distance of the latest dance craze, we, it seems, were in error in juggling the proper letters together in an attempt to decipher "copy" of Dashing Around With Dot when she referred to a young blade in the town as being an expert in the "jooking" rhythm. It seems that our contemporary, Mac Wyatt, comes to the rescue and tells us how to spell it. We give you the correct spelling from this devotee of terpsichore. Juking is the word—correctly spelled—and for a practical demonstration see some of the agile right and left swingers. However, in the Birmingham Post "Highways and Byways," we note the word is spelled Jooking! What it is, how it is done, and how spelled, is still a mystery to Personal Mention. We await a demonstration from some Juker or Jooker or Joker as the case may be.—Shelby County Democrat.

The Sweeper has decided that the best thing to do about this whole business is to admit that we were just "joking" about "juking," and let the matter remain status quo. However, before we close this matter entirely and leave it up to those who participate, as to whether they are "juking," "jooking," or "joking," we would like to deny any effort on our part to do either. We remember a plank in Frank Dixon's platform which declared for junking all juking in Alabama, and we hope he was not joking.

Noticed a news item a few days ago that the farmer's dollar was worth more this year than last. We don't believe it. —Luverne Journal.

Neither do we, and besides, where is the farmer who has a dollar, anyway?

An agricultural chemist is displaying a woman's dress spun from cottage cheese and he says that clothing can be made from other forms of cheese, too. No doubt the loud clothes can be made best out of limburger.—Sumter County Journal.

We also wonder if Roquefort wouldn't come in handy for some of the better grades of the "lounds."

A good way to fill up an editorial column is to become violently angry at some issue or at somebody and then let the pencil grind out bitter slithers of vindictive venom, but with the thermometer bubbling up around 95 and 96 it is too uncomfortably warm to become angry. Nothing seems important enough to become angry about.—Hale County News.

Editor Morgan has struck a keynote when he says "nothing seems important enough to become angry about." Nothing, either in hot or cold weather is that important. Any subject or situation can always be thrashed out better if we refrain from becoming angry over the matter.

The Troubles of an Editor

There are always those who will kick. For instance, if you publish jokes with whiskers on them, someone will say you ought to be in a lunatic joint. If you don't print something to smile at, they say you are a pessimistic fossil. If you spread yourself and write an original article, they will say it is stolen. If you rewrite an article, they say you can't write. If you say a deserving word of a man, they say you are partial. If you compliment the ladies, the men are jealous. If on the contrary, you criticize them, the verdict of the ladies is to the effect that your paper is not fit for the construction of a bustle. If you stay in your office and work it is because you are afraid to be seen on the streets. If you are out on the streets it is because you are too lazy to work. If you look seedy, you are a bum and squandering your money. If you wear good clothes you are a dude, and don't pay for them. If you play a social game of any kind and get stuck, you are a sucker and a poor fish; if you win, you are a professional gambler and a tinnhorn sport. And so it goes all through the editor's life—just one continued round of pleasant complications.—Exchange.

Editor Gunter, of the Mountain Eagle, from whom we "lift" the above, failed to add the mental agonies which the small town editor suffers, in an effort to find worthwhile material to fill the editorial columns of his paper. Of course, we can always spout profusely both pro and con about a lot of things, somehow after they are written they never seem to be worth the effort.

Melvyn Douglas, Florence Rice Featured in "Fast Company"

Melvyn Douglas, who has recently climbed to new screen heights with his deft comedy portrayals, adds new laurels to his career as a modern rare book sleuth in "Fast Company," which comes to the Strand Theatre Sunday and Monday.

Florence Rice as the feminine lead is given a complete personality change with the aid of special mature hair dress and make-up as a distinct contrast to the ingenues of her recent pictures. She plays the ultra-modern wife of Douglas who believes that domestic and business life can be combined.

The plot presents a novelty background for a fast-moving blend of romance, mystery, drama and thrills. An inside revelation of the little known traffic in stolen rare books provides a diverting series of incidents leading to a murder and the breaking up of an international racket.

Miss Rice and Douglas share the adventures of the picture with a delightful tongue in cheek spirit that defies the villainous attempts of the book gang to stop their efforts to solve the mystery.

Claire Dodd provides blonde allure in the role of an inside member of the book gang, who finds that romance is more dangerous than a knowledge of gang secrets. Her revelations to Melvyn Douglas, who masquerades as a roving swain with the knowledge of his wife, finally breaks up the book racket.

Others featured in the cast are Sheppard Strudwick, Louis Calhern, were: Mrs. J. C. Rogers, Ebenezer Club; Mrs. Will Finley, Shelby Club; Mrs. Earnest G. Wyatt, and Mrs. Alva Wood, Klein Club.

The annual camp scheduled for club women was held at Oak Mountain State Park, August 24 and 25. This camp was scheduled to provide a vacation from the daily home duties of the farm homemaker. Swimming, hiking, and games were some of the recreational features of this two-day program.

Two of Shelby County's most outstanding 4-H club girls, Nina Winslett, Helena, Rt. 1, and Earle Hood, Dunnivant, were selected to attend the 4-H Leadership School in Auburn the latter part of June. This state-wide meeting, composed of two 4-H Club girls and two 4-H Club boys from each county, was planned to instruct these girls and boys in the duties and responsibilities of leadership in their own communities. Shelby County 4-H Clubs will feel the results of this meeting in the organization of a County Council of 4-H Club girls and boys in the early fall.

Immediately following this Leadership Camp, the home agent, accompanied by nine other outstanding 4-H girls went to Auburn for the annual girls Short Course. 4-H members attending this meeting were: Vestula Vaughn, Vincent; Margaret Wyatt, Vincent; Estelle Ray, Wilsonville; Helen Lokey, Wilsonville; Janet Shaw, Chelsea; Eleanor Winslett, Helena; Louise Johnson, Calera; Virginia Lockridge, Calera; and Mildred West, Calera. The Shelby County girls had charge of general assembly on Wednesday morning, July 6, Helen Lokey of Wilsonville presiding, and Eleanor Winslett of Helena acting as song leader. During the health contest, Louise Johnson of Calera won joint honors for District 2 with the Chilton County health winner. Louise will enter the state contest in Montgomery in October. This is the second year that Louise has been a district health winner.

In cooperation with Mr. Clark, boys' 4-H Club agent, the home agent held a three-day camp for girls and boys at Blue Creek Camp, June 21, 22, and 23. About 50 girls and boys attended this camp which featured a combined educational and recreational program. Particularly interesting was the boat trip to Mitchell Dam and the tour through the dam.

C. H. Glass has returned to his home in Linden after a visit with P. M. Cain, Jr.

"Blockade," Timeliest Film Co-Stars Carroll and Fonda

Perhaps the timeliest of the season's motion pictures, and certainly the one presenting the most tensely dramatic action, is "Blockade," Walter Wanger's production which comes to the Strand Theatre on Thursday and Friday, with Madeleine Carroll and Henry Fonda in the starring roles.

The background of this stirring photoplay is the Spanish civil war, though the central theme of the story is the romance of Miss Carroll and Fonda, both caught in the seething maelstrom of the conflict.

Many imposing settings were erected for the picture, including one embracing the entire waterfront of the mythical city of Castelmare, with a welter of picturesque buildings crowding almost to the sea wall facing the Mediterranean.

The story of "Blockade" opens with Norma (Madeleine Carroll) arriving in Spain to discover her father and an associate have been active in helping to foment a civil war. War breaks out, Marco (Henry Fonda), a farmer whom the girl has met and fallen in love with, becomes a soldier, kills Norma's father as a spy and is obliged to arrest her as a suspect.

Released through a traitorous alliance between her father's former associate and a Spanish general, she is forced to become their aide in espionage work and sent to Castelmare as the bearer of a message to spies intent upon the destruction of a ship laden with food for the relief of the blockaded city. The trusted men are engaged in secretly selling their services to the other side.

The plot is discovered by Marco as Norma, with a sudden revulsion of feeling over the plight of the starving townspeople, attempts to rectify the wrong she has done.

"Blockade" was directed by William Dieterle, who gained fame when the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences acclaimed his most recent picture, "The Life of Emile Zola," as the greatest production of 1937.

TITLED REFEREE

LOCAL NEWS OF CALERA

Martin-Gibson

The marriage of Miss Lida Charlotte Martin, daughter of Mrs. W. H. Martin of Calera, to Mr. Homer Leon Gibson of Troy was solemnized at the home of the bride's mother Sunday morning, August 28, at 10 o'clock. The ring ceremony was performed by Brother T. M. Wynn pastor of the Calera Methodist Church, before an improvised altar of ivy and dahlias.

Nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Ella Booker.

The bride entered with her uncle, Mr. Dick Martin. She was attired in a smart black and white trimmed crepe fall suit with harmonizing accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of gardenias. The bridegroom was attended by his twin brother, Mr. Herbert Leo Gibson of Troy as best man.

After the ceremony was performed the bride and bridegroom left for a trip. Upon their return they will make their home in Georgiana.

Out of town guests were: Mrs. Leona Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Anderson and son, Homer, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Park, all of Troy; Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Werner, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Werner, Mr. James Werner, all of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Mrs.

Lucille Davis, Mr. Perry Prescott, of Georgiana; Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Retherford of Montgomery; and Mr. and Mrs. Prince Martin, of Birmingham.

Farm News From the State Extension Service Bureau

Clay County Farmers Are Proving The Value of Improved Farming Practices

Lineville, Ala. — Adjusting the cropping system on the Lineville demonstration farm to include the maximum amount of cover crops has halted erosion on this farm composed of steep hills and changed low yields to high yields, according to F. M. White, Clay County Agent.

Ninety-five acres of the farm are planted to crops. Every acre of cropland was planted to winter legumes in 1937-38 and 65 to 80 per cent of the land was in cover crops the six preceding years. Results of this practice show that 13 bales of cotton, averaging 523 pounds per bale, were grown on 14 acres, and 30 bushels of corn per acre were produced. Before the cover crop program was started it took five acres to produce one bale of cotton, and corn averaged eight bushels per acre.

When the project was begun all cropland on the farm was properly terraced. Oats and vetch for hay and vetch alone have been planted for the winter each year. Abundance of hay is produced for farm needs and a considerable quantity is sold each year.

Fifteen hundred pounds of crimson clover seed were saved this year, reports Mr. White. In addition, the cover crop has halted erosion and ugly gullies have disappeared.

Necessary feed for four mules, 2 mares, 15 to 20 hogs and 15 head of cattle is produced on the farm. Also a flock of 500 hens is being raised.

ETOWAH FARMER IS BELIEVER IN LEGUMES

Gadsden, Ala. — Two enemies to successful farming — low per-acre yields and soil erosion—have been driven from the farm of R. S. Golightly of Etowah County by the proper use of cover crops.

In 1925, the land owned by Mr. Golightly produced only 11 bales of cotton on 25 acres, while average per acre yield of corn was about 15 bushels. During that year none of the land was planted to cover crops. Most of the land was vulnerable to erosion and a large part of the rich top soil was washed off by water.

Realizing that a real problem faced him, the Etowah County farmer set about the task of doing something to improve the situation. He first terraced the farm. Then he began following the advice of his county agent, who at that time was L. L. Self, now district extension supervisor, and planted vetch.

For the first eight years all of the 60-acre farm, with the possible exception of an occasional small area, has grown winter cover crops. Result is that in 1937 Mr. Golightly harvested 31 bales of cotton from 24 acres, and an average of 40 bushels of corn per acre was produced. One block of his farm has made more than 1,000 pounds of lint cotton per acre in five crops out of nine.

Mr. Golightly is also improving his pasture lands to supply more feed for his livestock without having to harvest the crops.

The experience of this successful farmer has been that with winter legumes and pasture crops it is necessary to apply phosphate liberally. Without phosphate legume crops are nearly failures, he states.

The Electric Range

--A thrifty electrical appliance, which stores heat when the current is on, so food will continue to cook when the current is off.

USUALLY the amount of the electric bill is a pleasant surprise after an automatic electric range is installed in a home. It's so much less than the purchaser expects it to be! True the salesman or dealer tells her that electricity costs 32% less in Alabama than the national average; that the rate for cooking electrically steps down; that the electric range oven stores heat and cooks a large part of the time with the current off. Still there is a bit of doubt in her mind—she thinks all those facts are just "sales talk." So she buys the range—with her fingers crossed. But after her range is installed and she gets the first bill, she becomes an electric cookery enthusiast—her electric range has done all that was claimed for it, and she becomes convinced that electric cookery is thrifty cookery.

Canning Budget Is Designed For Babies; Plan to Feed Baby Out of Can Launched

Auburn, Ala.—A plan to feed baby out of a can instead of a bottle—or rather supplement the bottle with the can—has been launched in Alabama.

Lavada Curtis, food preservation specialist of the state extension service, announced a canning budget that will reduce some of the farm family's expense for baby food.

Miss Curtis said the baby during the first year would need a budget that contained 50 half pints of tomato juice, 20 half pints of carrot, 10 half pints of spinach, 5 half pints

English peas, and 5 half pints asparagus.

"The baby needs additional minerals and vitamins to supplement those in milk and it is economy on the part of the farm mother to conserve a well chosen variety of these elements when fresh vegetables are available.

Miss Curtis says to cook the vegetable until soft and rub through a coarse sieve. Use equal parts of vegetable pulp and water, add to containers and process the same as in canning food for adults.

Peanut Production Is Lowered Under A A A Allotments

Auburn, Ala.—An adjustment lowering the rate of deduction from farm payments for the overplanting of peanut acreage allotments has been approved by the Secretary of Agriculture, announces A. W. Jones, AAA administrator.

The new deduction rate is $1.20 per hundred pounds on the normal production of each acre in excess of the peanut allotment. This is 6 times the payment rate of 20 cents per hundred pounds which will be made on the normal production of each acre planted within the allotment. The deduction rate originally established under the 1938 farm program was 10 times the payment rate.

The adjustment was the result of unavoidable delays in establishing allotments in commercial peanut areas. Many farmers planted their 1938 crop before the county committees were able to notify them of their allotments, and in many cases the acreages planted were considerably in excess of allotments. In such cases, deductions at the original rate would have cancelled all or most of the farm payment. At average yields under normal conditions, the new deduction rate amounts to about $9 per acre for overplanting the peanut allotment, compared with the original deduction rate of about $15 per acre.

Movie Quiz $250,000 Cash Prize Contest

Motion picture exhibitors, distributors and producers of the United States and Canada have devised a Movie Quiz $250,000.00 cash prize contest, whereby a quarter of a million dollars will be given away in cash prizes.

All you have to do is go to the movies and answer 30 simple movie quiz questions. The prize list ranges from $50,000 first prize down to 5,000 prizes of $10 each, a total of 5,404 different cash prizes.

The Strand Theatre in Montevallo is co-operating in this contest, and Mr. Watson wants to give every one of his patrons a booklet telling all about the contest. When you go to the show, don't forget to ask for your copy of the book.

Ninety-four outstanding pictures are included in the contest. Your book will tell you what they are and the questions you must answer about each of them. But you only have to answer questions about 30 of the pictures.

Three contest pictures are on the Strand program for next week. They are "Rich Man, Poor Girl" Tuesday; "Smashing the Racket," Wednesday; "The Crowd Roars" Thursday and Friday.

TWICE-A-WEEK LAUNDRY SERVICE IS INAUGURATED

Mr. Leo Thompson, of the Clanton Laundry and Cleaning Company, announces that he has inaugurated a twice-a-week laundry service for the people of Montevallo. His truck will be here Tuesday and Friday of each week to pick up and deliver. This means that laundry sent out on Tuesday will come back Friday and that sent on Friday will be back Tuesday.

This plan, Mr. Thompson said, has been adopted in the belief that it will enable him to better serve the needs of his customers here.

Mr. A. P. Taylor will drive the truck and make calls to the homes. He will call regularly at every home where laundry service is desired.

TEMPERANCE MEETING

The citizens of Shelby County are called to meet at the Courthouse in Columbiana next Sunday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock to consider the question of temperance in the county. Mr. Earl Hotalen, Executive Secretary of the Alabama Temperance Alliance, will address the meeting. A temperance election for Shelby County has been called and will be held September 27. All who are interested in the moral and social well-being of Shelby County should go to Columbiana next Sunday afternoon and learn the facts which have been withheld from the people.

Aged Minister Died Wednesday

Funeral Services For Rev. Samuel Robert Lester in Birmingham Thursday Morning

Rev. Samuel Robert Lester passed away at 2:15 a.m. Wednesday, September 7, at his home in Montevallo. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Luther P. Chesnut, of Montevallo; Willis A. Lester, of Tuscon, Arizona, and Robert M. Lester, of New York City; four grandsons, Sam L. Chesnut, of Birmingham, Luther T. Chesnut, Huntsville; Willis A. Lester, Tuscon, Arizona; Robert M. Lester, New York City; four great-grandchildren, Sam L. Chesnut, Jr., and Dan B. Chesnut, of Birmingham; Luther T. Chesnut, III, and Annette Chesnut, of Huntsville; several nephews and nieces.

Funeral services will be held Thursday morning at the McCoy Memorial Church, Birmingham. The body will lie in state in that church (which he organized many years ago) from nine to ten o'clock, at which hour services will follow, conducted by Rev. O. R. Burns, Rev. W. B. Hope, Rev. Fred B. Pearson, and Rev. Robert Echols. Interment will be in Elmwood Cemetery with Rogan in charge. Active pallbearers will be the stewards of Montevallo Methodist Church members of the North Alabama Conference as honorary pallbearers.

Brother Lester joined the North Alabama Conference in 1884, was in active work 44 years, and had been a superannuate for almost ten years.

His passing brings to a close a long and useful life, a life fraught with loving deeds and glorious successes in every charge and district he served.

His interest in the girls who attended Alabama College was never failing, and even after he was unable to attend church services his interest never waned.

He attended Dean Napier's Sunday School class as long as he was able, and on his last conscious Sabbath day he whispered to his family to be sure to attend Sunday School and church.

His memory is precious to his family and friends and their inheritance of this is prized beyond expression. His influence will abide, and the remembrance of him who considered no deed too lowly to do for mankind will influence those who knew him to a more loyal service to the Lord to whom he was so faithful.

"Servant of God, well done!"

Sunday In The Churches

BAPTIST

Dr. Pearson will preach at both morning and evening services. His theme will be: "In School With Christ" for the morning sermon, and "A Roman Centurion" for the evening service.

The circles of the Missionary Society will meet at the church Monday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock.

At the morning service last Sunday Dr. Pearson made a brief report on the work of the past year, September 1, 1937 to August 31, 1938. He reported that during the year he had made nearly nine hundred visits; that he had spoken about 225 times, including sermons, addresses, prayer meeting talks etc.; and that there had been 89 additions to the church, 14 of them by baptism. He said that in attendance at all the services and in general interest this had been the best year since he has been in Montevallo—eight and a half years. He said, also, that the year just beginning holds prospects of greater things.

Have you done your part during the past year? Have you been fair to yourself and to God? Have you been loyal to Christ and to His church? Have you cooperated with the church and the pastor? What will you do this year?

Bessemer Delegation Here In Interest of Proposed Highway

Mayor Jap Bryant, the bushy-browed bicycle boss of Bessemer, brought a caravan of his townsmen to Montevallo Wednesday, as a part of a good-will and get-acquainted tour which they were making of the entire country adjacent to Bessemer.

The party arrived here just in time to make a tour of the town of Montevallo and Alabama College campus before joining the Montevallo Civic Club at our regular luncheon.

Mr. J. R. Lewis presided at the meeting, and after extending a hearty welcome to the visitors, introduced Mayor Bryant. Mr. Bryant spoke briefly of the purposes of the Bessemer delegation in making this tour of different towns. After he made his talk Mr. Bryant introduced the members of the Bessemer group, each of whom made a short talk. Those named in the introduction were: Charley Hawkins, president of Bessemer Chamber of Commerce; Dr. L. L. Vann, secretary of Bessemer Chamber of Commerce; Earle Bruner, Commissioner of Jefferson County; Henry Sweet, Commissioner of Jefferson County; Eugene Honeycutt, Alderman of Bessemer; Ed DeShazo, president of Bessemer Rotary Club; Mr. Skinner, architect; Mr. Smith, of the Birmingham Post; Mr. Bob Russell, Sinclair dealer, who lives in Montevallo and does business in Bessemer; Mr. Thigpen of Long-Lewis Hardware Co.; Mr. Horace Wright; Mr. Ralford, State Highway Patrolman, who piloted the party; Mr. Ralph Brandon; Mr. Erick; Mr.

Howe Price, editor of The Bessemer Tribune.

After the visitors had their say, President Lewis called on Montevallo's Mayor, Dr. Charles T. Acker, who expressed the pleasure and interest of the people of Montevallo in having the Bessemer business men pay us a visit. Following Dr. Acker, further expressions on behalf of Montevallo were made by Judge Brick Shaw, and Dr. J. I. Riddle of the Alabama College faculty. Mr. Chas. G. Dobbins, executive secretary of Alabama College, stated the regrets of President Harman that he could not be present, owing to the urgency of his duties at the college incident to registration of students for the opening of the session.

From the expressions made by our visitors, it appeared that the big motive in their visit was to stir up interest in a state highway to come out of Bessemer, through Montevallo, and to connect with the present Montgomery Highway somewhere south of Calera. One would gather from the statements made on the subject that Bessemer is ready to go to the bat with everything and everybody necessary to obtain such a road. Their idea met with hearty approval of the Montevallo people in the meeting, and they were assured by Mayor Acker and others that Montevallo will go down the line with them in sponsoring this road.

Dr. J. I. Reid made an interesting announcement that he has information from the State Highway Department that such a road is contemplated and is a very probable project for the not too distant future.

Their many friends regret to see them leave Montevallo and wish them well in their new situation.

Mrs. T. W. Cox Buried Wednesday Afternoon

Mrs. T. W. Cox, former resident of Montevallo, died Tuesday night at her home in Marion. She had been ill for over a month, during which time she was in a hospital in Selma until a few days prior to her death.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at the Baptist Church in Marion, after which the body was brought to Montevallo for burial in Montevallo Cemetery.

Mrs. Cox is survived by her husband, Mr. T. W. Cox; one daughter, Mrs. Ed Ivie, of Birmingham; and one grandson, Tommie Ivie.

Before moving to Marion about two years ago Mr. and Mrs. Cox were residents of Montevallo for 25 years. They lived in the house that stood on the present site of the postoffice.

Mrs. Cox was an active member of the Baptist Church, and gave much of her time and energy to causes sponsored by the various church organizations.

Temperance Meeting Held Last Sunday

A large and enthusiastic group from all over Shelby County met at the Courthouse in Columbiana last Sunday afternoon to organize for the fight on the liquor traffic in Shelby County in the election that has been called for the 27th of this month. Every seat in the auditorium and balcony was taken and people were standing in the rear.

The meeting was addressed by Mr. Earl W. Hotalen, Executive Secretary of the Alabama Temperance Alliance, Birmingham. He revealed many facts, that have not been made available to the public, in regard to the liquor situation in the United States; in Alabama, and in Shelby County. He read the names of twelve people in Shelby County who have federal licenses to sell beer, wine, and whiskey. Several women were included in the list. Mr. Hotalen said that every person selling liquor in Shelby County under such a license is a bootlegger.

Before the close of the meeting the Shelby County Temperance Alliance was organized and plans were made for a thorough campaign of information in all parts of the county during the month. The meeting was characterized by a high spirit and by an evident determination to win in this campaign. Shelby County has consistently voted dry in all recent elections and it is believed that a big majority against the liquor traffic will be piled up this time.

The body voted to ask all the papers in the county to publish the names of those who signed the petition calling for the election.

GULF FISHING TRIP

Sam Klotzman and Teamon McCulley spent Sunday and Monday on a fishing cruise in the Gulf of Mexico. They went to Bayou La Batre, where they boarded a yacht and spent two full days in quest of the denizens of the deep blue waters. They report a most enjoyable time, withholding, however, any discussion of their catch. "No use for us to tell what we caught," they said, "because everybody would say it is just another fish tale."

VITAL STATISTICS

Montgomery, Ala. — Births totaled 6 in Shelby County during July, while deaths during that month, totaled 20, according to provisional figures just prepared by the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health.

The month's total of deaths for the state as a whole was 2,379, while births totaled 5,320. The state's provisional birth rate for July was 21.5 per 1,000 population, as compared with a provisional death rate of 9.6 per 1,000 population.

Red Men To Hold Pow Wow Here

Montevallo Will Be Host to Quarterly State Convention On November 5

The regular quarterly convention of the Improved Order of Red Men will be held in Montevallo Saturday, November 5, when several hundred members of the order from local Tribes over the State of Alabama will be in attendance.

Wahouma Tribe No. 52, at Montevallo, will be hosts to the visiting chiefs, furnishing a program of entertainment and refreshments. The following members constitute the committee on arrangements for the convention: J. M. Vernon, Tom Yesic, W. B. Vernon, G. C. King, Curtis Vernon, W. M. Wyatt and Lee Lucas.

Wahouma Tribe at Montevallo was recently transferred here from Coleman. Several members from Siluria transferred here, and with reinstatement of many former members of the order who live in the Dogwood and Montevallo district, the tribe has already gained a strong membership.

A concerted effort is being made to further increase the membership, a special dispensation for this purpose having been granted by the Great Sachem, Floyd Vernon. It is hoped that by the time of the convention a large class of new members and reinstatements may be obtained.

Glad to See You Back!

"Hi there, so and so, glad to see you back." This cheerful and hearty greeting has been made hundreds of times in Montevallo the past week, as different ones of teachers, faculty and students have put in their appearance for another school and college session. Indeed it is a hearty greeting, because we who stay here all through the summer really miss those who go away with the closing of school. And when we say we are glad to see you back, we really mean it.

Welcome, Mr. Varnell

We extend a hearty welcome to Mr. J. B. Varnell as a member of the Montevallo High School faculty. He is an able young man of good training and experience, and will make a worthy contribution to our school. The Times editor has known him for several years and we are glad to have him "cross our path" again.

From Shady Grove

Capt. Leon Hicks rolled in from Shady Grove Tuesday fit as a fiddle and rarin'-to-go with school, football and what-have-you. "It has been a great summer where I've been," he said, "but it lacked a whole lot of being any frost on the punkins when I left home."

Economic Highlights

From INDUSTRIAL NEWS REVIEW

The American people know thoroughly the government's attitude toward domestic policies and problems. There have been few eras in which the doings of government and the politicians who run the machine have been of so much concern to the average man and woman. But it is probably a fact that a relatively small proportion of the people have any adequate realization of the immensely important change that has taken place in American foreign policy during the last few years of European and Asiatic turmoil.

Two recent events have served to further clarify this change. Secretary of State Hull made a burning talk which, while it named no names, was very obviously addressed to the dictators of the world. Stressing again his passionately held doctrines involving international morality and order, he put this country at the forefront of those powers which will work for peace—but which at the same time are prepared for war, and are ready and able to defend their rights at all times. Two days later the President went to Canada to dedicate a new international bridge—and made a talk in which he assured the Dominion that this country will come to her aid if she is ever attacked.

As Life expresses it, "Bigger news than either of the speeches, the calm acceptance of them at home served to show how far a determined President and his Secretary of State, in three years, have swung Americans away from peace-at-any-price isolationism and toward an acceptance of active, responsible, war-risky participation in world affairs." Ten years ago it would have been incredible had the highest government official made speeches of these kinds. Today they are apparently accepted with approval by the majority of Americans.

It is of the utmost significance that practically every policy of the New Deal has been roundly criticized in many quarters — with, generally speaking, the exception of its foreign policy. Because of his sage counsel, Secretary Hull has steadily gained in stature since he entered the cabinet after a distinguished career in Congress. The United States, under the Hull policy, will pull no nation's chestnuts from the fire. But it will use all the moral suasion at its command to repel aggressors. It distrusts and dislikes all the dictators. And it has unsurpassed forces to meet the issue if and when it is forced.

This does not mean that there is no criticism at all of our present foreign policy. One school favors complete isolation, and would have this country keep completely out of foreign affairs and let the belligerent powers and their victims shift for themselves. Another school, somewhat left-wing in its philosophy, would have the U. S. take a much more belligerent line than it is taking, even to the use of war threats. But both these schools are very much in the minority, and there seems small chance that either will get their programs over.

Whether American opinion has created American foreign policy or American foreign policy has created American opinion is a moot question. But various surveys indicate that the policy is remarkably in consonance with the views of the people at large. These surveys, for instance, show that Americans are overwhelmingly opposed to Japan and in sympathy with China. They show a mounting disgust for England's peace-at-any-price policy. They show active hatred of the Nazis and Fascists. And they show that the bulk of the people are against Franco, and want the Spanish government to win.

It is obvious that our foreign policy has been a strong psychological check on the ambitions of aggressor nations. They can't afford to lose even our formal friendship—and much less take a chance on arms and supply embargos. As a nation, we are rich, powerful, and remote from all other great powers. We are practically immune from attack—and in the event of war, we would have the balance of power, as we did in the last. That helps a great deal to keep the tenuous peace of Europe.

The business indexes still tend upward. As the Annalist puts it, "So far as can be seen the recovery movement is continuing in a generally satisfactory manner."

It is true that in many lines there has been little or no actual betterment as yet. But even there, sentiment has undergone substantial change, and leaders are looking to the future with a great deal more equanimity than they did a few months back when all that could be seen on the economic horizon was storm clouds.

Steel recently passed 40 per cent of capacity for the first time since last November. Employment has been jumping in the automobile industry, due to preparation for next year's cars. Electric power is nearing its high for this year.

Retail sales have been down, as usually happens in the summer, but the decline has not been greater than seasonal in most states. Good fall business is anticipated.

You can interpret the recent primary result any way you want to. If you are a New Dealer, you can find evidence of continuing support for the president. If you oppose this administration, you can find evidence to prove that the tide is running away from the New Deal, and that conservatives have the edge.

Nearer to truth than either of these views is the observation that the primaries have proven practically nothing. Maury Maverick, one of the 100 per cent New Dealers, lost in Texas, by a very close margin, to a Democrat who is cool to some of the administration policies. In the Virginia primaries, more or less anti-New Deal Democrats won nominations. On the other hand, strong New Deal candidates swept the slate in West Virginia.

Generally regarded as most important was the bitter Kentucky primary, where Senate Majority Leader Barkley won re-nomination in a relatively close contest with Governor Chandler. Mr. Barkley was given an extremely warm endorsement by the president, which is generally regarded as having turned the tide in his favor.

Summing up, the primaries indicate that the New Deal is managing to hold its territory — but by narrowing margins in many instances. And the so-called administration "purge" is not proving as successful as some anticipated.

A bulletin to The Times from the press department of Hotel Commodore, New York City, August 19, says:

Recent arrivals at the Hotel Commodore include Miss Josephine P. Eddy, of Montevallo. Miss Eddy, a faculty member of Alabama College, is returning from a summer trip to Europe.

Items From The Records

In thinking of the ever important item of increased farm income, farmers should give serious consideration to home gardens, states W. A. Ruffin, extension horticulturist. Statistics on the production of vegetables for home consumption show that these crops can be more than doubled and the minimum requirements will not be met. This year Alabama farmers should produce a $20,000,000 crop of vegetables in addition to what they are already growing in order to feed themselves.

Further interest in improving the quality of Alabama's sorghum and sugarcane syrup is evidenced by the construction of two up-to-date syrup-making plants to use the new process developed by the U. S. Bureau of Chemistry and Soils, says M. D. Harman, specialist in syrup making, of the Alabama Extension Service. The two new plants are in Conecuh and Shelby Counties.

There are eighteen counties in Alabama in which the Negroes outnumber the whites. These counties are Autauga, Barbour, Bullock, Choctaw, Clarke, Dallas, Greene, Hale, Lee, Lowndes, Macon, Marengo, Monroe, Montgomery, Perry, Russell, Sumter and Wilcox.

Tenant farm families exceed the farm-owner families in this state in 57 of the 67 counties. The counties in which the farm owners predominate are Baldwin, Clarke, Cullman, Escambia, Jefferson, Marion, Mobile, Walker, Washington, and Winston.

Facts From the Records

The State Bureau of Publicity, in connection with the State Highway Department, was organized primarily for the purpose of co-ordinating the efforts of organizations throughout the State of Alabama in an advertising campaign to bring more tourists and settlers into the state.

This department was established March 1, 1937. The early work of the program consisted of accumulating and compiling information on the attractions of Alabama. Because of the scarcity of information, much research work had to be done. The bureau is now in position to furnish information about road conditions to civic organizations, hotels, and filling stations through the state. This information goes to those interested in travel in every state in the union. The early program of the bureau also consisted in contacting individuals as much as possible. While this policy has not been abandoned, the bureau today placing emphasis on contacts that will reach groups in order to bring the name of Alabama and some item of interest about the state before as many readers in the United States and Canada as possible without the use of paid advertising. In this work stories and pictures have been furnished to such nationally circulated magazines as Holland's, Manufacturers Record, Dixie Construction, and Sports Afield. The bureau is engaged in furnishing pictures of Alabama to map makers and to gasoline industries publications that Alabama may be better represented in their publications.

Invitations are being prepared, together with road condition information and maps, to be sent delegates to the American Legion convention that will be held in Los Angeles in September. Every effort is being made to attract these travelers through Alabama either on their outward trip or as they return home.

At this time the mails carry information about Alabama and its miles of paved roads to the tourist and travel bureaus in practically every large city of every state as well as Canada and other foreign countries.

There is being compiled at this time a list of establishments that cater to tourists, together with rates, types of accommodations and attractions available in that area.

Approximately 20,000 of the spring edition of the 1938 maps have been sent out, 6,000 copies of Alabama Highway Information have been distributed.

Several leading railroads, bus lines, steamship lines have joined in the work, either distributing material for the Publicity Department or offering space in their publications or by offering to reproduce articles and pictures of Alabama on posters.

Road information reports are being sent each week to the American Automobile Association, to map companies, tourist and travel organizations throughout the United States. The reports are also sent to hotels and chambers of commerce in Alabama. This information is furnished at the request of those to whom it is sent.

The names of prospective visitors to Alabama received at this office are furnished to chambers of commerce in the state and to representatives of Alabama hotels who will write personal letters of invitation to these travelers.

What is a Newspaper Man?

Has the question ever been put up to you? If it has, have you been able to answer it? The other night I was introduced to some folks and in the course of the ensuing conversation the fact that I was a newspaper man was mentioned. "Yes," said one of my party, "he's one of the nuts."

Just what is a newspaper man? He's the kind of fellow who will take abuse from a man all of his life and then write in his obituary that nothing but friends were numbered among the acquaintances of the deceased, who was never known to utter a disparaging remark nor make a single enemy.

He is the kind of fellow who will tell how lovely the bride looked when she walked up the aisle and wish her a lifetime of happiness and success in spite of the fact that her wedding invitations were sold to her by a city printer.

A newspaper man is the kind of fellow who writes columns and editorials on trading at home for the benefit of local merchants who use handbill advertising purchased from out-of-town firms.

He is the kind of fellow who will meekly say "Yes ma'am," and "I'm sorry" for not mentioning this and that to an irate subscriber who has been getting the paper for years without making any payments for the subscriptions.

A newspaper man is the kind of fellow who goes around in shabby clothes, drives an outmoded car, and tips his hat to the smartly dressed person, who owes him enough so that he could buy a new suit of clothes for himself.

He is the kind of fellow who pushes every community enterprise, who puts the baseball team and basketball team on the map, but is called a chisler if he expects any complimentary tickets.

He is the man who praises you to the skies when you do something good, covers up for you when you do something wrong and gets the first kick when you are in a bad temper.

He is the kind of fellow you run to first for help and think of last when he needs help. If he's not "nuts" what is he?—John F. Tischler in Delano (Minn.) Eagle.

JOHN HENRY'S PLATFORM

John Henry Singleton, editor of the Enterprise Ledger, is a good deal of a wag, but a lot of sound philosophy underlies much of the humor of his expressions. When it is remembered that candidates for office make so many promises, and that in so many cases those promises remain unfulfilled after election, John Henry's suggestions for the planks of a platform if he should ever decide to seek public office, are as subtly ironical as some of those of Dr. Swift himself. Here are the suggested planks:

Lower taxes and bigger and better appropriations.

Old age pensions for all persons under 40 and the same amount for all persons over 40.

Fewer departments in government in the interest of economy and more government jobs for everyone.

Two holidays in every week and a week of two days.

Greater taxes upon the utilities in order to provide free power for nothing to everyone without cost to anyone except taxpayers.

One hundred per cent exemption for all taxpayers.

Fewer laws and more officers to enforce them.

Two cars in every garage and two garages for every car.

Two tanks of gas for every car and three tanks for all candidates.

Five candidates for every office and a job for every candidate. — Alabama Journal.

REAL "JOHN HENRY"

A trade journal tells this one: Recently a newspaper worker dropped into a bank to get his pay check cashed. Unthoughtfully he handed the check to the teller before endorsing it. Flipping the paper over, the teller said: "Put your 'John Henry' there." The man wrote the endorsement "John Henry" and handed it back to the teller. Then he had to prove to the banker that he was not joking, but that his name was really John Henry.

Chambers County News 16-Page Edition

The Sweeper read with much interest the splendid 16-page Fairfax special edition of the Chambers County News issued last week. The edition carried much display advertising and many interesting articles on industry and community life in Chambers County. All in all, the edition was a very creditable portrayal of the hustling and prosperous community, and the capable manner in which the editors of The News are telling the world about Chambers County.

Wonder what ever became of the old-fashioned boy who could play a Jew's harp. — Bill Gammell in Clayton Record.

Why, Bill, haven't you heard? He is now pulling fancy tunes out of an old bicycle pump on Major Bowes' Amateur unit programs.

A penny isn't much; hardly worth picking up on the street, yet there are fortunes in penny sales. In a year one company operating penny slot machines vending chewing gum and candy took in three and a half billion pennies — $35,000,000 — over $10,000,000 of which represented profit.—Southern Democrat.

This is one of those rare instances where to be "penny wise" is most certainly not also "pound foolish." Many a huge fortune has been built up by the fellow who has been wise enough to literally believe in the adage: "Take care of the pennies and the dollars will take care of themselves."

Excess Profits

An Arkansas woman advertised for a husband. She got one at a cost of $9. He enlisted in the army and was killed. She got $10,000 insurance and a widow's pension for the rest of her life. Yet, some will tell you that advertising doesn't pay. —Leon News.

The above shows a net profit of $9,991 from an expenditure of only $9.00. That is certainly "excess profit" but it also goes to prove that a little well placed newspaper advertising will bring good dividends for the money expended.

When he came through the door of the Magnolia Cafe Simon and I knew immediately he was some sort of traveling man. He came in talking and for fully twenty minutes he didn't slow down. Then, although we didn't believe it could happen, he was silent for a moment. Then he asked, "Do you have home cooking here?" And when Simon told him they did, he went on: "Well, give me two pieces of burned toast, and three eggs scrambled all over the plate, and a cup of coffee with the dregs halfway up to the handle; and when it is ready just sit over there and nag the devil out of me while I eat it."—Milton Bird in Shelby County Democrat.

Now here is the fellow we have been hearing about, who actually misses his home environment when circumstances force him to be absent therefrom. The daily "nagging" at the breakfast table may become irksome to us, but nevertheless, we married men get to where we can't really enjoy a meal if it is lacking. "There's no place like home."

WILTON NEWS

School here, school there, school, school everywhere. On Tuesday morning school opened here with prospects for a fine year with Mrs. Edward Mahaffey and Miss Alice Nolen teaching. A large number of our young people entered Montevallo High School and Misses Louise Sanders and Dorothy Lacey entered Alabama College. Off to Auburn for their first year were Messers Russell Ambrose and James Fancher, accompanied by Ehney Ambrose for his third term. ## Shelby Baptists Pass Resolutions On Temperance

(These resolutions were passed by the Shelby County Baptist Association, meeting at Underwood, on August 31. The Association voted to request their publication in all the county papers.)

In view of the demoralizing effects of alcoholic beverages upon the bodies, minds, and souls of those who use them;

In view of the universal condemnation of the use of strong drink in the Bible;

In view of the ungodly effort of the liquor traffic to debauch the character of men and women, boys and girls, for personal gain;

In view of the present effort of ungodly men to legalize the sale of liquor in Shelby County;

Therefore, be it resolved by this body:

1. That we urge all Christians to abstain from the use of all intoxicating drinks.

2. That we call upon all Christians to oppose the liquor traffic by vote, by personal influence, and by any other means possible.

3. That we cooperate with the Alabama Temperance Alliance and with any county organization to fight the liquor traffic and to promote temperance.

4. That we demand the teaching of temperance in all public schools as required by law.

5. That we urge upon parents their solemn duty to protect the home and the children from the damning influence of strong drink.

6. That we call upon all churches in our Association to promote temperance by preaching, by teaching, and by openly opposing the sale of liquor either legally or illegally.

FEW FARMERS ACCEPT FREE CLASSING OFFER

Auburn, Ala. — Cotton growers in more than 100 communities in Alabama can qualify for the free classing service of the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics offered this year to growers in one-variety cotton communities, states J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, in urging these growers to take advantage of this service. Thus far few growers have in applications.

The classing office at Atlanta is open for applications, copies of which Mr. Lowery has already sent to county agents. By filling out these applications, and then upon approval send samples of the cotton to this office, farmers will be able to get free sampling on grade and price quotations within a few days. Growers are advised to see their county agents as soon as possible.

EX-SOLDIERS WANTED

Former Regular Army soldiers under 35 years of age, honorably discharged within the last three years, single and in good health are wanted for the Regular Army Reserve.

After enlistment, these men remain at home on their regular jobs, except in case of a national emergency.

Ex-soldiers enlisting in the Regular Army Reserve receive $24.00 per year and are not required to attend summer or other training camps.

This offers former soldiers an opportunity to earn additional money, also to continue serving their country and materially strengthen the national defense.

Full particulars concerning enlistment may be secured from the Army Recruiting Agent, Post Office Building, Montgomery, Ala.

Members of the Regular Army Reserve are not barred from re-enlisting in the Regular Army at any time, should they so desire.

Rio Grande Rangers At Strand Saturday

Gene Durnal and his famous Rangers from the Rio Grande Valley coming to the Strand Theatre Saturday present one of the finest units of this type of entertainment.

Gene Durnal and his Rangers will be remembered as helping to make that ever popular song, "The Last Roundup," famous.

This is their favorite song and it is included in their program every day.

Picture these Rangers on a moonlight night riding along the trail, watching their herd of cattle and singing the songs which you will hear from the stage, that are dear to the hearts of every red-blooded Westerner.

The unit is composed of a talented bunch of boys who do everything from rope spinning to playing fiddles, banjos and singing those favorite songs that they have sung over the station at Del Rio, Texas, XER.

This is the fifth annual tour for the Rangers who are headed East and then back to the West for the roundups and rodeos, as each man is a crack shot and an expert rider.

The Rangers will be glad to sing any request number that the folks may especially like. Just write your request to Gene Durnal and his Rio Grande Rangers at the Strand Theatre and they will be very glad to play or sing any number that you may desire while they are at the theatre.

Miss Edythe Saylor is home after spending the summer in Canada.

He Slipped from "Excellent" to Only "Average" In His Grades

HERE you have a youngster who, during last school term, for reasons his parents or teacher weren't able to determine, got only "average" grades against nearly all "A's" the term before. The boy is healthy and attentive in his classes. He likes his teacher, so there is no "teacher personality" problem.

Let us look at his home. Ah! Here may be the trouble. We find that he does his home work in a light of less than 2 footcandles*, when a minimum of 15 footcandles* is recommended.

Let's go to his schoolroom. Here we find the lighting satisfactory for desk work if his desk happens to be near a window, but some distance away from the window he wouldn't be able to see well, even if he had glasses. Writing on the blackboard is legible only on bright days.

It may be, of course, that this boy needs glasses, but even glasses can't help him as much as they might if he must get his lessons in insufficient or glaring light.

"Light Condition" Your Home

Alabama Power Company has in its employ 23 lighting advisors, who with the aid of a little instrument called a "sight-meter," gladly will help you determine if the lighting in your home, school, office or factory, can be improved. Frequently they suggest how you can improve it with little or no additional cost. There is no charge for their services.

Cotton Loan Plan Explained By Jones

Cooperating Farmers May Receive Benefit at Rate of 8.3 Cents Per Pound

Auburn, Ala. — The government loan of 8.30 cents per pound under the 1938 farm program is available in full to cooperating farmers who have not knowingly planted cotton in excess of the 1938 acreage allotment, A. W. Jones, AAA administrator in Alabama, announced this week.

Non-cooperators will be eligible to receive a loan at 60 per cent of the rate applicable to cooperating producers and only on that part of the production in excess of their marketing quotas, according to Mr. Jones. The 8.30 cents is for seven-eighths middling cotton, with varying loans available on other grades and staples.

Loans will be made directly by the Commodity Credit Corporation and by banks and other local lending agencies under arrangements substantially similar to those pertaining to previous cotton loans, Mr. Jones said. The corporation, he said, has allocated the sum of $100,000,000 for loans on the 1938 cotton crop. Loans will bear 4 per cent interest and mature July 31, 1939.

Banks and other lending agencies may make the loans to producers on cotton stored in approved warehouses and sell the notes to Commodity Credit Corporation from time to time prior to 30 days from the maturity of the notes, at par with accrued interest at the rate of 2½ per cent. Such loans will be purchased only from banks and other lending agencies which enter into an agreement to pay 1½ per cent per annum on the principal amount collected on the notes while held by agencies lending the money.

Loans will be made only upon cotton represented by negotiable insured warehouse receipts issued by warehouses approved by Commodity Credit Corporation. Such approval will be made by the manager of the loan agency of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation serving the district in which the warehouse is located, Mr. Jones declared. The districts served by each RFC loan agency for cotton will be the same as those used in the 1937-39 program, he said.

Montevallo People Will Provide Way Home For Boys of the Football Team

Twenty-eight people in Montevallo have agreed to make a trip to Boothton twice during football season to take players home. The high school certainly does appreciate the effort these people are making to enable us to have a football team this year.

Following is the schedule that has been worked out for the "trips":

September

- 12—Monday, Spot Jones-Williams.
- 13—Tuesday, Johnny Hardy.
- 14—Wednesday, Mr. Rhodes.
- 15—Thursday, Eddie Mahaffey.
- 16—Friday, Hicks.
- 19—Monday, J. A. Brown.
- 20—Tuesday, Percy Lee.
- 21—Wednesday, Mr. White.
- 22—Thursday, Mr. Weems.
- 23—Friday, Mr. Varnell.
- 26—Monday, Dr. Vaughan.
- 27—Tuesday, Mr. Tidwell.
- 28—Wednesday, Slick Morse.
- 29—Thursday, Mr. Towery.
- 30—Friday, Milton Jeter.

October

- 3—Monday, Clyde Burgin.
- 4—Tuesday, Mr. Gardner.
- 5—Wednesday, R. Woolley.
- 6—Thursday, Doc Wilson.
- 7—Friday, Bobby Cleary.
- 10—Monday, Glenn Elliott.

Lauderdale Explains Cotton Legislation

There are a number of inquiries concerning recent legislation authorizing (1) the repayment of the tax paid to the government under the Bankhead Cotton Control Act in 1934-35, and (2) the payment of $1 per bale to holders of C-5-1, Participation Trust Certificate of 1933 and 1934, who wish to offer them to the pool manager for sale.

(1) The act referred to above authorizing repayment of the tax applies only to those producers who paid the tax through the ginners to the government. When tax exemption certificates were purchased, the purchase price went to the farmer who sold them, and not to the government, and the government cannot now pay back funds that it did not receive. If you are one of the few who paid the tax to the ginner instead of buying certificates, you should file a claim with Mr. Harwell G. Davis, collector of internal revenue, Treasury Department, Birmingham, Ala.

(2) The manager of the Cotton Pool may purchase Form C-5-1, cotton producers Pool Participation Trust Certificate at the rate of $1 per bale from the lawful original holder or from the lawful transferee holder to whom such certificate was transferred. Such holders shall make application on Form C-5L-A, which may be obtained at the County Agent's office. — A. A. Lauderdale, County Agent.

Mrs. W. B. Tate Died At Home Childersburg

Mrs. W. B. Tate, age 66, died last Wednesday, September 7, at her home at Childersburg.

American Legion To Issue Memory Token With Dues Payment

Commemorative Coin Will be Given To All Members Enrolled By Armistice Day

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 10 — "Celebrate Armistice Day, November 11, 1938, as a member of the American Legion."

With twenty years of peace time service to their credit that is the word that is being passed to all World War veterans by post and department officials of the American Legion.

After two decades Armistice Day becomes America's newest legal holiday by all federal agencies.

As part of the plan to reward those who have their 1939 American Legion cards by Armistice Day, a 20-year commemorative coin is being issued by the national organization in association with cooperating departments.

Coin Available to All

The 20-year commemorative coin is designed as a pocket piece to be carried by all early enrolling members of the American Legion. Brightly finished, it approximates the size of a 50-cent coin. On its obverse side the coin carries the following wording: "Twentieth Anniversary—Armistice Day," in the outer circle. Within this circle appears this inscription: "1918-1938, in recognition of American Legion service and early 1939 enrollment." The reverse side of the commemorative coin is a reproduction of the American Legion emblem.

The coin has been approved by 26 State Departments of the American Legion. Officials of these departments have placed an initial order for 248,000 of these coins, and initial delivery to the departments will be made September 15.

The general plan is to have the coin available in all posts so that post officials will have them ready for distribution coincidentally with the distribution of the individual membership cards for 1939.

Those paying their dues prior to Armistice Day will be given the coins.

H. L. Plumer, assistant national adjutant of the American Legion, has recently conducted a survey of state departments of the American Legion, to determine the sentiment with respect to 1939 membership.

"There is every reason for believing we will have one-half million members by Armistice Day," he stated. "Our membership gains in the year just now closing have indicated a high degree of stabilization in our membership. For the future, it is evident that an increasing number will join ranks of those who are included among the advanced enrollments."

Montevallo Cafe Has New Ice Cream

Red Woolley, manager of the Montevallo Cafe and Bakery, announces this week the installation of an up-to-date ice cream manufacturing machine. He already has this equipment installed and in operation at the cafe, and invites the people of Montevallo to visit him and see the machine in operation.

The outfit is strictly modern in every respect, and is of the type now being used extensively all over the country by cafes and drug stores who make their own ice cream.

The machine, manufactured by the Bastian - Blessing Company, comprises a rapid freezing unit in which the liquid is placed and chilled to a heavy paste consistency, after which it is drawn off and placed in the storage cabinet to harden, before being dispensed to the customer. This machine has a capacity of freezing two and a half gallons of ice cream about every eight minutes, ready for the hardening process. Mr. Woolley states that he will have on hand at all times a complete assortment of flavors of ice cream and sherberts, will cater also to special made orders for parties, clubs and luncheon affairs.

Read his advertisement elsewhere in this paper wherein he is offering some attractive specials in ice cream to introduce his home-made products to the people of Montevallo. Also, drop by and see him make it while you wait.

NEW FIRE HYDRANTS ARE NOW BEING INSTALLED

Work was started Monday morning on the laying of new water mains and installation of additional fire hydrants in Montevallo.

The work was started on Highland Avenue, the initial task being to place the main under the concrete paving at the crossing between Mr. Day's and Mrs. Yeager's.

Chilton County Fair September 20-24

Agricultural Exhibits, Amusements, And Other Attractions at Affair Sponsored by Kiwanis Club

The Times has received a copy of the catalogue and premium list of the Chilton County Fair, which is to be held at Clanton, September 20th through the 24th.

Sponsors of the county fair are the members of Clanton Kiwanis Club. The fair organization is headed by Dr. V. J. Gragg, president; J. Mell Martin, secretary and treasurer; Thomas P. Littlejohn, manager; L. E. Diefenderfer, John L. Hollis, Luther E. Little, Dr. W. L. Parrish and Clifford Manning, board of directors.

Announcing the fair this year, which is the second annual event, the officials say:

"The Chilton County Fair was established for the purpose of promoting agricultural interests, improvement of stock and poultry, and the general progress of Chilton County. The Fair this year will exhibit to the people of this section of Alabama the greatest and most attractive displays of agriculture, women's handiwork, livestock and poultry ever seen at any county fair."

The program is announced as follows:

Tuesday, ladies free day; Wednesday, school children's day; Thursday, wedding day; Friday, aviation day; Saturday, farmers' day.

The Fair association and the people of Chilton County extend a most cordial invitation to the people of Shelby County to attend the Fair and join them in having a grand time.

There will be a big fireworks display Thursday night. Various amusements, shows, stunts, etc. will offer attractions for old and young every day and night.

The fair grounds this year will be at the airport one mile east of Clanton.

Negro Escaped From Mr. Fore In Kentucky

Sheriff Claude Fore went to Minneapolis, Minn., this week to get a Negro by the name of Riggins, who is wanted in Shelby County on a charge of murdering his wife.

Mr. Fore got the Negro and started back with him. All went well until he reached Madisonville, Kentucky. There they stopped to eat.

The sheriff is quoted in a newspaper dispatch in the daily papers Wednesday as saying the Negro escaped while they were eating in a cafe.

Mr. Fore, it is said, was eating in the front part of the place, while the Negro was getting his in the kitchen. The Negro fled and Kentucky officers are looking for him.

Siluria Fair Friday Afternoon and Night

The Siluria P. T. A. Fair begins at one o'clock Friday of this week, September 16. Those who have exhibits are requested to bring them early in the day.

At three o'clock the baby show begins. There will be many added attractions on the fair grounds.

At 8 o'clock Friday night in the high school auditorium you will have an opportunity to hear Congressman Luther Patrick, of Birmingham, Legislator Handy Ellis, of Columbiana, and other prominent characters in a mock trial. This will be the biggest laugh of the year.

The P. T. A. invites everybody to come.

Dogs That Bark in the Night

The Times received a big order last week—one, in fact, so big we can have little hope of filling according to the wishes of our trusting and hopeful friend.

A phone call brought this request:

"You have been so successful in getting things done about cutting weeds, fire protection, etc., I want to get our paper interested in another matter of much concern to the peace and quiet of Montevallo residents, I want you to start (and, if possible, finish) a campaign to silence the barking dogs that so ruthlessly disturb our sleep in the quiet of the night."

The Times lays no claim to the successes so graciously attributed to us in the above statement. If we have been any part of a means to the accomplishment, we are gratified. Now, what shall we do to uphold our record in the new task given us?

Dogs will be dogs. That's natural. They will bark at the slightest provocation—even a provocation which cannot be imagined or discerned by a tired and weary person who is at the moment chiefly interested in securing a few hours of peaceful slumber in the arms of Morpheus.

We have dogs in Montevallo by hordes, it is true. They disturb us sorely. They provoke our neighbors to wrath and perhaps vengeful processes.

We have seen great sorrow in the writhing pain that brought death to St. Louis Times Bob. He was poisoned, perhaps by an irate neighbor whose peace he disturbed. We take the blame. Bob would not have been a disturber if we had been more careful to give him the proper restraint. He was a good dog, and we loved him. But just like you perhaps do the dog you love, we let him get out at night and do things he should not do, thereby raising or joining in a disturbance that annoyed the neighbors.

It appears timely to suggest to everyone owning a dog that proper attention be given to keep him from being a community disturber at night. It can be done easily, if we will remember we have a dog, and that he will inevitably be a disturber unless we look after him properly.

If one has a dog and does not safeguard his natural bent to howl and bark at night, he should be made away with promptly. We hope the citizens of Montevallo will give serious thought to this subject.

Improper Parking Wastes Space

A man who conducts a business on Main Street called our attention the other day to the disorderly manner in which automobiles were parked in front of his place. If all the cars in the block had been parked properly, there would have been room for a dozen more in the same space.

Furthermore, proper parking would make it easier for drivers to get their machines in and out, thereby saving many scratches and dents on the fenders.

"Looks like we could get folks to pay more attention to their parking," said the man. Indeed it does!

Reasons For The Gasoline Tax Amendment

The Alabama Motorists Association, backed up by approximately fifteen other interested organizations, has announced that it is taking the active lead in sponsoring before the voters of Alabama a constitutional amendment which, when ratified, will require all of the state gasoline and other state special motor vehicle tax revenues to be spent exclusively for the construction and maintenance of roads, bridges, and streets, and the retirement of road, bridge and street obligations. The amendment will be Number 1 at the November 8th general election.

In announcing its campaign, the Motorists Association states that there are two principal reasons for the amendment. First, the motor vehicle owner who pays these special taxes, also pays all the other general taxes for general governmental purposes the same as does the non-motor vehicle owner, and is then called upon to pay these special taxes on the operation of his vehicle for road construction and maintenance purposes. He has a right to expect and demand that these special tax revenues be used for the purpose for which they were created. So long as they are spent exclusively for road purposes, the motorist receives just benefit from them. That is the only reason he stands for a tax rate equivalent to more than 50 per cent retail sales on his gasoline. To use the special motor vehicle tax revenues for general governmental purposes cannot be justified.

Aside from the injustice of using these revenues for general purposes, however, is the fact that should the diversion of these funds become prevalent in Alabama, the state will lose a portion of its federal aid highway funds. Congress, in 1934, amended the federal aid road laws so that now, if any state diverts more of its gasoline or other special motor vehicle tax revenues from roads than it was diverting in 1934, that state will be penalized by a loss of part of its federal aid funds for highways. The maximum penalty is one-third of the federal aid allotments each year. The maximum penalty in Alabama could in some years reach $1,000,000, depending on the total allocation to Alabama. Some states are already losing a part of their federal funds and others have replaced previously diverted funds in order to avoid penalty.

Due to the passage of several local laws in the Alabama legislature in past years authorizing certain individual counties to divert their share of the state gasoline tax, Alabama was approaching the point where she would become subject to the federal penalty. Also several general laws have been proposed in Alabama to divert a portion of the state gasoline tax, any one of which, had it passed, would have unquestionably caused us to be penalized.

The legislature during the last session, in order to protect and perpetuate Alabama's federal aid standing, passed a law which repealed all of the previously enacted laws authorizing diversion of the gasoline and lubricating oil tax revenues, and at the same time almost unanimously submitted the constitutional amendment now being sponsored by the Motorists Association and others interested in the development of highways in the state. Unless it is ratified on November 8th, these diversion laws will be passed again at future legislative sessions and ultimately Alabama will be penalized.

Since the taxes affected by the amendment were originated for the purpose of developing and maintaining our road system; since it is unfair to tax the motor vehicle owner doubly for general governmental purposes; since it would prove disastrous to our road construction program if we lost a part of our federal aid funds due to any cause; since every citizen of Alabama, whether he owns a motor vehicle or not reaps great benefits from good roads, and since we will always be faced with the necessity of financing an adequate highway system, this paper heartily endorses Amendment Number 1 at the general election on November 8th.

Featured for the first time will be a fat barrow contest this year at the State Fair, Birmingham, Sept. 26-Oct. 1. In this contest both farmers and 4-H club members may exhibit purebred, cross or grade barrows and gilts.

S. R. Doughty, extension soil conservationist, tells how farmers in soil conservation demonstration areas are solving the problem of how best to keep Bermuda grass from spreading to cultivated fields. They are planting strips of close-growing crops along each side of the outlet channel for a width of 10 to 15 feet. Such a crop provides a dense shade along the edges of the outlet channel which keeps Bermuda from spreading. The practice also removes any danger of the plow dragging sprigs of Bermuda into the field.

This is the same day that the new State Committee takes office, and the same day the new governor is inaugurated.

Two hundred and fifty to three hundred pounds of peanuts in the field are required to produce 100 pounds of pork when hogs are allowed to hog-off peanuts. On fairly thin land from four to four and a half acres per litter of solid runner peanuts will be required to finish the litter that has been carried on pasture and soybeans, F. W. Burns, livestock specialist of the Alabama Extension Service, advises.

THE OTHER Editor's Viewpoint From the Press of the State

The Tenants' Dilemma

We are interested in the people of the South, especially the people of Alabama. and as we see it, a financial crisis is hovering over the state. We speak more directly about the tenant farmer. He is only permitted to make five (5) bales of cotton to the plow. His half of this cotton will not pay for his advances in food, much less than half of the fertilizer, which he must use or he will not make the five bales. He cannot get advances from his bank or any merchant and his landlord cannot advance to him. The house the tenant farmer lives in, usually is not fit for a cow shed. This lessens the chance of getting good tenants, encourages inferior citizenship, lowers the standard of family life and deprives the tenant of reasonable comfort. Poor tenant houses lead to poor health and drives the young farmer from the farm and farm life. The land owners of the state need help, so that they may help the tenant farmer. The CRISIS is on us, what are we going to do about it?—Louverne Journal.

Editor McLendon has touched upon a subject which needs much deep thought and consideration by every official and land owner in the entire South. The tenant farmer problem is one which it seems is almost beyond solving. Here in the South where the majority of tenant farmers are forced by various circumstances to depend largely upon cotton for a money crop, they are at a decided disadvantage. As set out by Brother McLendon, their share of the curtailed crop falls far short of meeting their requirements, and the landowner's share will not justify him to make any improvements to the property. The tenant housing situation is indeed deplorable in the South—but, what can we do about it under prevailing circumstances? The federal government has set up plans whereby the tenant farmer may purchase the land which he has been renting, but if he can meet the requirements necessary to secure a loan for this purpose, can he have any hopes of being able to improve the property to a point where it will present some semblance of a comfortable home and at the same time pay for the land as long as market conditions on farm products remain in the present state?

To get more information of markets and processing plants in Georgia approximately 50 business leaders of Alabama toured through South Georgia recently. The tour, sponsored by the Farm Products Marketing Committee of the State Chamber of Commerce and the agricultural committee of the Alabama Bankers Association, is a part in the two organizations' program to build better markets and obtain more processing plants in Alabama.

Even though Alabama Cotton producers may be given a white or a red marketing card or no card at all, the marketing quota provisions of the federal farm program does not hinder the normal movement of cotton to market, says A. W. Jones, administrative officer of the AAA in Alabama.

Alabama's Negro population has increased from 827,307 in 1900 to 944,843 in 1930, while the white population has increased from 1,001,152 in 1900 to 1,700,775 in 1930. In other words, a little more than 45 per cent of Alabama's population was Negroes in 1900. This dropped to less than 36 per cent in 1930.

Farmers and farm women all over Alabama are taking more interest in the problems of their county agriculture at Saturday forums where the farm people and the county agents get together to ask questions, discuss new farm methods and to "really get to the bottom of their farm problems."

An arrangement whereby 70 farmers and 4-H club members of Hale County are growing cotralaria seed patches as demonstrations will result in better crop production for the entire county, believes County Agent J. A. Medlock.

The United States Weather Bureau shows that since 1893, Alabama has had more clear days each year than cloudy days. From 1884 to 1893 the number of clear days has not dropped under 140 in any year and in only four years has it dropped under 150.

Federal tax laws brought into the treasury $6,241,000,000 during the fiscal year that closed June 30.

OUT OF The Waste Basket By THE SWEEPER

BARKING DOG SERENADE

The Sweeper is a devout lover of dogs, and a dog owner. We are steadfast in our belief that a man's dog is indeed his best and truest friend. And because of this, we hold no grudge against any man or his dog, but when dogs are allowed to run loose at night and become a nuisance to the peace and tranquility of the community, we are ready to do some "howling" of our own.

It seems to us that all of the dogs in Montevallo have suddenly become infected with a mania for staging midnight serenades. There are deep bass voiced hounds, and falsetto voiced pekinese, and a full range in between who nightly disturb the peaceful slumber of Montevallo residents.

Let's all be a little more considerate of our neighbors and see to it that the dogs in Montevallo are made to behave themselves at night. Most every dog owner in this town has some place on the premises where he could confine his dog at night and put a stop to this barking dog business. By all means, let's enjoy our pets, but not indulge their freedom to the point where our neighbors who cannot sleep for them, shall be tempted to commit the dastardly crime of poisoning or otherwise destroying an innocent dumb animal, whose nature is to roam at night and bark at every little noise that he hears.

Of course we have a depression. Americans are in want. In fact, they want more than any other people in the world.—The Greene County Democrat.

Yeah boy, when it comes to real good wanting, there is no people under the sun who can beat us. Whether we need it or can afford it, we want it.—Alexander City Outlook.

All of which reminds us of the familiar expression: "I never felt better, had less or wanted more." And it is this eternal desire for things which keeps the nose of many a man to the proverbial grindstone. On the other hand, when a person ceases to want, and becomes entirely satisfied with his or her immediate status, that person will soon be lost in the forward strides of civilization. It is the men and women who have always wanted things beyond their ability to procure, that have had the vision and incentive to push forward and onward toward their coveted goal. They are responsible for the economic advancement of this glorious country of ours.

Let's Swap

Up in Wisconsin a motor car dealer has hit on a novel scheme which is bringing results.

His used car market had slowed up almost to a standstill, as the people did not have sufficient cash for down payments. And so he originated the idea of a "Swap Sales" plan, which he advertised in display in the home town papers.

He offered such bargains as: "A 1929 Ford coupe for a down payment of 35 frying chickens and $3.00 a week; a Chevrolet pickup for 15 cords of wood down payment and $3.00 a week, and a 1929 Plymouth for 5 small pigs and $2.45 a week." The number of payments to complete the purchase was not mentioned in any case. Two tons of hay, a "good milk cow," and "one sow with pigs" were other down payment requirements.—Troy Messenger.

Where cash is scarce, the barter and exchange idea is fine business. Many merchants could increase their volume of business if they would adopt this method of putting their merchandise in the hands of the ultimate consumer. However, we wonder what the poor farmer is going to do about the gasoline and oil required to operate the used "benzine buggy" which he buys with his wife's frying chickens, or the family milk cow. Unless the filling station operator will come to his rescue and swap him gas, oil and tires for a setting of eggs, a ham of meat, or a mess of collard greens, he may have to forego his riding after all. Although this column believes in advertising and any business method that will increase business activity on a sound basis, we feel that of a person has to resort to the exchange of such items as frying chickens, milk cows, sows with pigs, or hay to acquire things which are more or less a luxury, and especially unless he has a surplus of those items beyond the requirements of his family, he should think not only twice, but many times before he disposes of them for an automobile.

At Strand Theatre Thursday and Friday

Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland in "Love Finds Andy Hardy"

"Hardy Family" Pictures is Hollywood's Answer to Old Cry for "New Faces"

"The rapidly growing 'series' idea in motion pictures is offering one solution to Hollywood's perennial plea for new faces," says George Seitz, who directed the fourth of the "Judge Hardy" series, "Love Finds Andy Hardy," showing at the Strand Thursday and Friday, September 15-16.

"In these pictures the cast 'nucleus' remains unchanged, but with new adventures encountered in each successive release, it is necessary to provide new talent.

"In both the Judge Hardy and Jones Family groups, the primary interest being in youthful members of the cast, additions to the cast are usually made from young players.

"In 'You're Only Young Once,' second of the Hardy Family pictures, two newcomers were given a chance to prove themselves, as Eleanor Lynn and Ted Pearson were given featured roles. Eleanor Lynn has been kept busy ever since while Ted Pearson went on to a good part in 'Test Pilot.'

"Judge Hardy's Children" served as the vehicle with which Jacqueline Laurent, French importation, was introduced to American film audiences.

"In the latest Hardy Family production, 'Love Finds Andy Hardy,' the studio placed another of its younger players in an important role Lana Turner, although twice tried in films, is given her biggest part in the picture as Mickey Rooney's erratic and feather-brained girl friend.

"The other picture 'serials' remain more or less steady regarding new players. But they are developing youngsters, attracting audience attention to boys and girls who may later develop into top - ranking players."

Soil Practices And Payments Listed

Auburn, Ala. —The manner in which Alabama farmers may qualify for soil-building benefit payments under the 1938 farm program was described here today by A. W. Jones, AAA administrative officer in Alabama.

The rate of payment for carrying out soil-building practices is $1.50 per practice "unit" up to the maximum amount of aid which a farm may receive for conducting such practices, Mr. Jones explained.

Some of the practices, with their unit values, which Jones said may be effectively used in Alabama to qualify for payments include:

Establishment of permanent pasture, one acre counts as two units, or $3.00.

Seeding biennial, perennial, or winter legumes, one acre equals one unit, or $1.50.

Manure crops, or cover crops, one acre equals one unit, or $1.50; when such crops are turned under on commercial vegetable farms, each

Star: Betty Lou Gerson, who is currently co-starred with Jim Ameche (Don's brother) in the Sunday "Win Your Lady" series, has been named for the title role in "Arnold Grimm's Daughter," top-flight daytime dramatic serial on NBC.

Finance: Tony Martin, Burns and Allen singer, is proving that he really has a following. Organizing his own band, he left the program a couple of weeks before it signed off for the summer to barn-storm the country. Despite soaring temperatures he has set new records wherever he has gone. Most recently, in Detroit, he did the biggest week's business at the Fox theatre since January, eclipsing the records of veteran name bands.

Career: Joan Bennett of the flickers and sister of Constance, is being groomed for a radio career by Al Siegel, whose other radio finds include Martha Raye, Shirley Ross and Dorothy Lamour.

Headache: That swing ditty, "Flat Foot Floogie with the Floy Floy" is giving Spanish announcers a large headache. They can translate "Flat Foot" all right for South American listeners, but they don't know what to do with "Floogie" and "Floy Floy." That song, "I've Got You Under My Skin," in Spanish becomes, "I've Got Between My Chest and Back," while the title of the ditty, "You Leave Me Breathless," is translated for our Latin American cousins, "You Leave Me Without Respiration." Wonder if they think we're silly?

MOST "TROUBLES" NEVER HAPPEN

YOUR VOICE, when it takes a trip by telephone, travels over a delicately balanced and highly complex electrical system. Hundreds of things could happen to break up your voice's path. Most of them never do.

These potential "troubles" rarely materialize because the men who direct and operate your telephone system have not been satisfied merely to repair damage after it has taken place. They have demanded that weak spots be sought out and corrected beforehand. All the nineteen thousand Southern Bell employees, in one way or another, join in this effort.

Subscribers' lines are checked periodically from the local testboards. The intricate equipment in the central office is tested constantly, particularly the relays and contacts. Emergency power supplies are provided.

Underground cables are filled with gas to detect leaks in the cable sheath. Aerial cables are checked, open wire lines are patrolled, to stop the "breaks" before they occur.

Men and money are required to do this never-ending job of "preventive maintenance," but the work is in keeping with the Bell System's aim to give you a telephone service that "is more and more free from errors, imperfections and delays."

PLAN FOOD SUPPLY, HOUSEWIVES ADVISED

Auburn, Ala.—In many homes in Alabama the families are planning everything but the family food sup-ply. If the food supply is well plan-ned and carried out, it is possible for the family to have enough and the right kinds of food without spending very much money, states Mildred Simon, new nutrition specialist of the Alabama Extension service. If the income is low, the variety of food must be limited and there-fore chosen more wisely. Miss Simon suggests that housewives make the following division of the food dollar: one-fifth for vegetables and fruits, one-fifth for milk and cheese, one-fifth for meat, fish, and eggs, one-fifth for bread and cereals, and one-fifth for butter, sugar, molasses, coffee, tea, etc. The farm family could easily obtain more than four-fifths of the food supply on the farm.

Mr. Burr Harris is on the sick list this week.

Value of Farm Lands is Raised By The Extensive Use of Legume Crops

Cullman, Ala. — By the use of winter legumes, cover crops, and improved cultural practices, T. W. Mitchell, Cullman County farmer, has been able to convert a run-down 125-acre farm for which he paid $4,000 in 1928 into one that he values at more than $7,000 today.

When Mr. Mitchell took over this farm it was averaging 15 bushels of corn per acre. Realizing that something had to be done to improve the farm increase yields, he began, upon the advice of his county agent, planting winter legumes and cover crops. Today, those same acres are producing 50 bushels or an increase of 35 bushels of corn per acre.

Crimson clover, now Mr. Mitchell's favorite legume, was not tried by him until 1935. Prior to that time, he planted 100 pounds of crimson clover seed and was able to save from the crop enough seed to plant 15 acres in 1936. Of this 15 acres, 6 acres were saved for seed. These six acres produced 3,000 pounds, which enabled him to plant 55 acres in 1937. That year he bought a harvesting machine and saved 200 pounds of clean seed for himself and some 3,500 pounds for his neighbors. Naturally, therefore, he highly favors crimson clover as a winter legume.

Mr. Mitchell has relied chiefly on cotton, corn, hay and truck crops to supply his income, but last year he began raising livestock and in the future plans to increase his livestock production. His income last year from livestock was $450.

ADVICE ON OAT TREATMENT GIVEN

Auburn, Ala. — The thousands of dollars that Alabama farmers lose each year from the smut disease of oats can be prevented easily and economically, states W. H. Gregory, associate extension agronomist, in urging all farmers to treat their seed with formaldehyde before planting.

"Smut is a fungus disease that is Gregory. "It appears on the oat head in many black dust-like masses composed of millions of minute spores or 'seed.' These spores get on the oat seeds during threshing processes or are carried from a diseased plant to a healthy plant by wind, insects, water, animals or some other carrier. This fungus grows into the seedling after germination has begun and does not appear to affect the plant in any way until heading time again.

The only sure way known of killing practically all the smut organisms is to treat the seed with formaldehyde. The directions for this treatment are listed as follows:

1. Secure a one-quart atomizer type sprayer from drug or hardware store. (Cost around 50 cents.)
2. Also secure from drugstore one pint of formaldehyde (40 per cent solution) for each 50 bushels of seed to be treated. (Cost about 50 cents.)
3. Pile oats to be treated on a clean floor, canvas, or in a tight wagon bed.
4. Pour formaldehyde from the bottle into the sprayer; fill the bottle with water and pour into the sprayer.
5. While the oats are being shoveled from one pile to another give one good squirt of the solution to each shovelful of oats moved.
6. Round up the treated pile and cover with bags which have been sprayed inside and out with the solution in order that the formaldehyde gas may be retained and penetrate the entire pile.
7. Leave the oats covered five hours or over night.

HOG PROSPECTS ARE CHANGED VERY LITTLE

Auburn, Ala. — Hog producers for the coming marketing year, which begins in October, showed little change during the past month, reports the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Market supplies for the 1938-39 marketing year will be considerably larger than those of the present year.

However, the effect of these larger supplies on the price of hogs will be offset, at least in part, by the improvements in consumer demands for meats which is anticipated this winter.

TURKEY DIET IN FALL IS IMPORTANT

Auburn, Ala. — Turkey growers need to be very careful about what they feed since some feeds can spoil the eating quality of turkey meat, said John E. Ivey, extension poultryman, today in advising growers that it is time to start priming turkeys for market.

"In feeding for market," says Mr. Ivey, "avoid feeds that you know are likely to produce off-flavor or dryness." Research indicates that some fish oils and fish meals are likely to cause off-flavors. So Mr. Ivey recommends that "all fish products be kept out of the diet of turkeys during the last 12 weeks before marketing."

"Other good protein supplements can take the place of fish meal," he says, "and sunshine can take the place of fish oils after turkeys get beyond the age of eight weeks. You don't have to take any chances with fish meals and oils during the last 12 weeks when turkeys are finishing off for market. However, if you have to use a fish meal, sardine meal seems to be the safest."

Among feeds known to produce high quality in turkey meat, corn seems to be ahead of all other grains with oats and wheat next in order. "Finish in young turkeys comes with maturity," says Ivey, "and you can hasten maturity by feeding plenty of protein, minerals and vitamins. Or, in other words, by feeding a well balanced growing diet of dry mash and scratch grains."

Mrs. Zettie Fulford and children, Clifford and Alice Nelle, have moved to Athens where Mrs. Fulford will teach music in the Athens High School.

Wildlife 4-H Camp at Shocco Springs Is Well Attended

Four-H club youths from several communities attended a wildlife conservation 4-H camp at Shocco Springs, Talladega, on September 8-11 under the direction of T. A. Sims, state 4-H club leader of the Alabama Extension Service. The camp began Thursday afternoon, September 8, and closed Sunday morning, September 11. The program included talks by wildlife experts, songs, games and recreation. Seakers were Commissioner I. T. Quinn, of the State Conservation Department; Dr. A. M. Pearson, leader of the Auburn wildlife cooperative project; W. A. Ruffin, entomologist and horticulturist; H. S. Swingle, Auburn fish culturist; Lyle Brown, extension forester; and J. B. Wilson, agricultural engineer. The youngsters heard interesting and informative talks on wildlife conservation and management. A tour of Cheaha National Park and showing of education pictures were also on the program. Assisting Sims in conducting the camp were Miss Elizabeth DeLoney, state girls' 4-H club leader; T. W. Lumpkin, Miss Dannie Orr, E. G. Small, C. E. Teague, Mrs. Annis Snoddy, W. D. Webster, Miss Mary Bailey, Miss Harriet Plowden and B. N. Ivey.

SWEET POTATOES MAY BE FED TO LIVESTOCK

Auburn, Ala. — Farmers who will this fall have surplus supplies of sweet potatoes may find satisfactory use for them in feeding livestock, states F. W. Burns, extension animal husbandman.

Sweet potatoes supply about one-third of the total digestive nutrients found in corn, says Mr. Burns. It requires from four to five bushels of sweet potatoes to equal one bushel of corn in feeding value. Sweet potatoes are rich in starch and dry matter, but low in protein, calcium, and phosphorus. In feeding sweet potatoes the protein element needs to be supplied in the ration as well as adequate minerals, particularly in the feeding of hogs. Sweet potatoes are best suited to the feeding of hogs. They may be either grazed off or fed as chopper tubers after harvesting.

MARVELS THAT KEEP YOUR ELECTRIC SERVICE DEPENDABLE No. 2 of a Series

"In a recent series of advertisements, I told you about some of the men and women who help keep your Alabama Power electric service dependable. This series, which I hope you'll read, tells about some of the 'Miracle Machines' developed by private industry which utilize or combat the forces of Nature so your electric service will be the best you can get for the money."

—REDDY KILOWATT

Gives Electricity Additional "ZIP" To Get There; Takes Out Some of the "ZIP" So You Can Use It

THAT'S the transformer, which to you may look like a plain or corrugated square or round painted iron box on a pole, or a gleaming battery of huge, mysterious appearing cylinders at a substation, such as you see in the picture.

The transformers located at the generating plants give the freshly generated electricity additional "Zip"—that is, they increase its voltage—to force it over the long transmission lines to the general locations where it is to be used. Arriving there, the electricity passes through one or more additional transformers which hold back some of the "Zip," so that when it reaches your home or place of business, your school or church, it is at the right voltage for use in the electrical devices which make living and working today so much easier than in earlier days.

You can rely on the dependability of Alabama Power Company electric service, because in the design and construction of its electrical transmission and distribution systems, its engineers have specified numerous transformers and much other equipment of the right size and kind placed at all points where needed, and have on hand spares for replacements on the rare occasions when they are needed.

CLANTON MAN GIVEN SUSPENDED SENTENCE

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 8—Federal Judge T. A. Murphree today gave Sidney Lewis Reynolds, Clanton, a 10-year sentence suspended under five years probation after Reynolds pleaded guilty to sending an extortion note while a student at the University of Alabama.

The 21-year-old youth admitted mailing a $6,000 extortion demand to a Tuscaloosa woman. The note threatened death for failure to pay the money, federal officers said.

Former Judge L. H. Reynolds, of Chilton County, appeared in behalf of Reynolds, his grandson, and said the boy had "repented" and now is now caring for his mother's family and his own.

Reynolds was represented by Edmund W. Pettus, Selma attorney.

CRIMSON CLOVER HAS FIVE USES

Auburn, Ala. — Crimson clover, the crop that is growing in popularity among Alabama farmers by leaps and bounds, has five uses—soil-building, soil conservation, hay, grazing and seed production, states J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, in advising Alabama farmers to try an acre of this crop.

"The popularity of crimson clover may be greatly attributed to this wide variety of uses," he states. "Crimson clover acts in the same way of all legumes in adding nitrogen and humus to the soil. Ten tons of crimson clover per acre will add as much organic matter to the soil as about eight tons of barnyard manure and a great deal of nitrogen in addition. By providing a cover for the soil during the winter this legume checks soil erosion losses.

Winter grazing conserves the hay supply. Crimson clover sown in combination with small grains makes excellent temporary pasture during late winter and early spring.

Crimson clover alone makes excellent hay, but it is difficult to cure. For improved winter hay, sow a mixture of small grain, crimson clover, and vetch. This overcomes the curing difficulty and adds to the quantity and quality of the hay produced.

For additional sources of income, farmers in many sections will find crimson clover available. Farmers can build their soil, get enough seed for home use, and sell enough to make the crop a valuable source of income.

Mrs. W. A. Stoddard and daughter, Mrs. Josephine Waller and children, were guests of the Hayselden's the past week. They have just returned from Austin, Texas, where Mrs. Waller has been attending the University of Texas this summer. She has accepted a position with Alabama College at Montevallo, teaching music and French. Several pleasant courtesies were extended them by their old friends who are always glad to have them return to Baldwin County.—Foley Onlooker.

Beer And Whisky Flow Freely As Shelby County Laughs At the State Liquor Law

Calera People Do Not Want Legalized Liquor Store To Be Operated In The Town

Conditions At Calera So Bad The Children Can Buy Liquor

(By Harold Fisher)

Calera, Ala.—A 10-year-old boy took a half-dollar and a quarter and scurried up an alley. In not more than five minutes he was back with a pint of whiskey in a paper sack. A chance acquaintance revealed that Mr. — was in town with a supply of homemade peach brandy which he was selling on the streets. Beer was sold to all comers at the rear of a garage and filling stations in the city limits. Whisky was sold at a dime a drink in a ramshackle store in the business district and at a residence within a stone's throw of the business district.

All this took place Monday morning of this week, not in any of Alabama's counties where alcoholic beverages are legal but in prohibition-bound Shelby County. It happened right here in Calera, either on or within a short distance from the Montgomery Highway, the state's busiest interurban traffic artery.

Shelby Countians who have not blinded themselves to conditions in the county have realized for some time that conditions were growing worse. Next door to Jefferson County, with its legalized and regulated liquor traffic, Shelby County continued to suffer all the pangs its neighboring county escaped when the state local option law went into effect.

Some of these Shelby Countians, among them many who voted dry in March, 1937, several weeks ago decided that something had to be done to correct these outrages. So they joined together and swiftly obtained the necessary signatures to assure another referendum.

Next Tuesday voters of Shelby will go to the polls to pass on a (Continued on back page)

Chest Assembly Meets Tonight

The Montevallo Community Chest Assembly will hold its annual meeting at the Montevallo Methodist Church tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 o'clock.

The meeting is announced by Dr. A. W. Vaughan, Chest Assembly chairman, in accordance with provisions of the constitution of the organization, which says:

The Assembly

Early in September of each year the Chairman of the Board for the preceding year shall ask all of the organized groups of the town that are concerned with general community welfare to select each a representative for the Community Chest Assembly. This group, after electing a chairman and secretary for the year, shall select a Board of nine citizens of Montevallo to serve for the ensuing year. The Assembly shall also receive and publish the annual financial report of the Board covering the fiscal year from October 1 to September 30. Nine members shall constitute a quorum in the Assembly.

Dr. Vaughan has sent notice of the meeting to all the participating groups, requesting that they send a representative to the meeting.

The Assembly will receive full reports from the Chest Board covering operations of the past year. Also the Assembly Monday night will consider organization and set-up for the next year.

Football Season Opener Friday 23

Montevallo football fans can look forward to a better than average team this year, or to quote Cap'n Hicks, "They look pretty good."

The local eleven will play their first game on Friday, September 23, at 3:00 p.m. in Montevallo, against Thompson High. Coach Hicks says he looks for trouble as he understands Thompson has increased in strength and ability.

The workouts have been more strenuous than usual this year and the boys are getting into shape nicely. Of course there are several "charley horses," but they are to be expected. The squad as a whole is light, but this disadvantage will be amply made up by speed as the whole team looks pretty fast.

Coach Hicks says nothing is certain, but there are some possibilities as to "who will play where." Ends: Fred Adams, Julius Mooney, Herbert Williamson, and Charles Harrison all look good, and barring changes, the starting ends will be picked from these four. Tackles: Edmund Toney, Warren Findley and Donald Lovelady are the outstanding contestants for these positions. Guards: John Nix and Raymond Bearden look like tops as guards. Center: Judge Martin has a reserved seat unless Leonard Lovelady continues to "come through." Backs: Here is the quandary that is putting gray hair in Coach Hicks' thin toupee: Donald Vaughan, J. A. Brown, Robert Dement, Dewey Smith, Arthur Liddle, Captain Aubrey Cahoon, Charles Johnson, Sam Hartley, and Raymond Lovelady are all out for first blood and if there is a slouch in that bunch we can't find him. Wiley Fancher and Walter Adkins are looking mighty good on the line and we understand these boys can play any line position "what is."

The above may not make up the best team in the state, but they're going to give the opposition plenty to think about—pu-lenty!

"THE BENEFICENT REPROBATE"

Thursday, Sept. 22, Siluria School.
Friday, Sept. 23, Four Mile.
Saturday, Sept. 24, Pea Ridge.
Sunday, Sept. 25, Boothton.
Monday, Sept. 26, Shelby.

All showings will be at 7:30 p.m. More than 2,000 people have seen this picture in the past few days and the response has been very fine. It is a talking picture, very interesting and instructive. It gives the verdict of science on the use of alcoholic beverages.

College Theatre In Tenth Season

The Alabama College Theatre will open its tenth season October 13, with presentation of "Yellow Sands," a comedy by Philipotts, in Palmer Hall. Direction will be by Dr. W. H. Trumbauer, professor of dramatics, and Miss Helen Hewell, instructor in dramatics.

Other numbers for the season are "High Tor," December 9; "Balloon," April 2.

Season tickets now on sale at 75 cents each provide for admission to the year's three big productions, the all-freshman play, and several laboratory plays. Single admissions will be 35 cents.

Football Schedule

The following is the schedule of games announced by Coach Hicks for the Montevallo High School football team:

September 23—Siluria, here.
September 30—Verbena, here.
October 7 — West Blocton, there.
October 14—Centerville, there.
October 21—Vincent, here.
November 11—Isabella, here.
November 23 — Columbiana, there.
October 28—Clanton, there.

Calera Protests Newspaper Story

Expressions heard in Calera Wednesday night indicate that there is powerful protest against what was termed "untrue and unfavorable publicity of the town" contained in the story of Harold Fisher in The Birmingham News, copy of which is reproduced in this issue of The Times.

The News, in connection with the story, carried a picture showing an "authentic whisky purchase from a small boy by Harold Fisher, of the Birmingham News staff, which was made last Monday."

"This picture was a frame-up," said Fred Allen, principal of the Calera School. "Conditions are not as bad as reported in the story," he declared. "I do not believe the picture shown in The News was of a Calera boy."

Mr. Allen said there is a strong probability that Mr. Fisher will be summoned before the Shelby County grand jury to offer evidence in justification of his derogatory charges against Calera.

Further emphasizing the other side of the question from that pictured by Mr. Fisher is the petition signed by many Calera people asking the voters to vote against repeal next Tuesday. This petition was prepared for publication in advance of the story in The News.

Business Women Hold Club Session

The regular monthly meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club was held at the Hotel St. George on Monday evening, September 19.

After an opening address by the new president, Miss Lelah Brownfield, the meeting took on a more informal note. Dr. Hallie Farmer played the part of inquiring reporter in order to get the members acquainted with one another, particularly with regard to their professions, and to introduce the group to the program for the year.

This year's program promises to be both interesting and worthwhile. The theme is "My Business and Yours." Several aspects of the subject are to be taken up, namely: My Job and Yours; My Employer and My Employees; My Pay Envelope and Yours; My Savings and Yours; and My Future and Yours.

The club looks forward to a very successful year under the leadership of Miss Lelah Brownfield, president; Mrs. Charlotte Peterson, vice president; Miss Katherine Fancher, recording secretary; and Mrs. J. A. Brown, treasurer.

Chairmen of standing committees are: Education, Dr. Hallie Farmer; Health, Miss Ollie Tillman; International Relations, Miss Wilma Baugh; Legislation, Miss Josephine Eddy; Membership, Mrs. R. B. Hicks; Program Coordination, Dr. Anne Eastman; Public Affairs, Mrs. S. M. Mahan; Publications, Miss Blanchann Fraser; and Publicity, Miss Minnie B. Tracey.

The Little Shop To Hold Opening

Informal Party Thursday, September 29, Will Start New Store for Women

"The Little Shop of Personal Service," exclusively for women and girls, will hold its informal opening Thursday, September 29, from 7 to 10 p.m. While no merchandise will be offered for sale at these hours, Miss Ethel Reasner, proprietor, extends an invitation to every woman to visit the new store and inspect its facilities, and its stock of goods.

The shop will be open for business Friday, September 30, offering a wide selection of dresses, accessories, lingerie, sportswear and hosiery. A nice, quiet lounge will provide comfort, and professionally trained personal attention will be given to every customer.

The location of "The Little Shop" is in the building recently vacated by Ike Nathews.

LICENSES SENT OUT

Hunting, fishing and fur catchers licenses for the fiscal year 1938-39 have been sent out to all probate judges in the state by the Conservation Department, and they will go on sale October 1. The licenses purchased last year expire September 30. Those who hunt, or fish with rod and reel or artificial bait on or after October 1 will be required to have the new licenses. State hunting license is $3; county, $1; fishing, $1. Revenue is used solely for restocking the fields and streams of Alabama and in other related conservation work.

Petition Requests Votes Against Repeal In Election Tuesday

Whereas, an election has been called for Tuesday, September 27, in which the people are called upon to vote on the question of the legalization of the sale of alcoholic liquors in Shelby County, and, whereas, it is considered practically certain that if a favorable vote for legalization is given, a liquor store would be opened in Calera.

We, citizens of Calera, by our signatures hereto attached, make the following declaration:

First: We are unalterably opposed to the legalization of the sale of liquor in Shelby County.

Second: That we are unalterably opposed to the establishment of a liquor store in Calera.

We appeal earnestly to the voters of Shelby County who live in other communities to consider this threat to the welfare of our community and to join with us on September 27 in voting solidly against legalization.

Community Chest

Montevallo has operated its Community Chest for one year. The Times believes that the facts and figures will fully justify the conclusion that the Chest has served many worthy purposes, and has served them well—in fact, better than these purposes would have been served otherwise.

The Assembly will meet tonight to receive reports of the past year's operations and to face the proposition of what will be done for next year.

We hope and believe the Community Chest will be continued. There is no other available plan that will work so thoroughly and efficiently to take care of the needs that are the responsibility of our community.

Plan for Winter Legumes

County Farm Agent A. A. Lauderdale, issues a statement this week upon the subject of planting winter legumes which should have consideration of every farmer in Shelby County.

He says:

"There are good crops of both corn and cotton in all parts of the county, and these crops are on good land.

"The best way to build land is to terrace properly and plant winter legumes, such as vetch, Austrian peas and crimson clover. To turn under a good growth of one of these crops will double the yield on the average acre of land.

"Every farmer in Shelby County should plant at least one-third of his land to winter legumes. The best time to plant is the latter part of September or during October. Use 20 pounds per acre of hairy vetch seed, or 30 pounds of Austrian peas, or 50 to 60 pounds of crimson clover.

"If the land has not been rotated from corn to cotton, 300 to 400 pounds of basic slag per acre should be used, at the time winter legumes are planted.

"To assist farmers in building their land, rental payments can be assigned to pay for legume seed and fertilizer. By assigning the rental checks which will be due about February, it will be possible for many farmers to plant these important crops who would not be able to pay cash at the present time for seed and fertilizer.

"If I can be of service to you in your soil building program, call on me."

THE OTHER Editor's Viewpoint From the Press of the State

War Baby Babble

Last week while we calmly ate lunch, Adolph Hitler made history.

It is not definitely clear whether Mr. Hitler prevented the beginning of the end or whether he merely postponed it. Regardless of when war comes, all the words the Fuehrer might expound, all the mob psychology he might employ, all the insane praise he might inspire cannot save civilization, such as it is, from another Dark Age. The next war must be stopped before it is permitted to ferment every nation of the world into seething fury.

War is illogical. When drums start rolling, hands shrieking, people shouting, and flags waving, it will be too late to prevent war. Now is the time to nourish in our hearts such a hatred for war as has never before been nourished in human hearts. Now is the time for "War Babies" to demand and receive their birthright from the "war to end war."

We, as a generation of "War Babies," cannot sit idly by while the insidious germ of war fever creeps into our own blood and betrays us. We must not be caught napping. We must teach hatred, live hatred, breathe hatred of war in every size, shape, and form. If other countries must blow their men to bits, slaughter their women, and starve their children, they will do it regardless of any verbal or written pleas and protests from us. Why include our own in the massacre? Once the machinery of war is set in motion, it gathers momentum and will not be stopped by "scraps of paper"—the Bible included. Because other nations must destroy themselves, we do not have to do the same thing. Who is Adolph Hitler to make brother rise up against brother? Who is Benito Mussolini to speed up the destruction of all man's efforts toward happiness for himself and others?

If war does come and the United States becomes drawn near the brink, we must remember one thing. We can live without Europe. We can live without Asia. We cannot live without the United States.—Jean Jenkins, in "The Alabamian."

Economic Highlights

From INDUSTRIAL NEWS REVIEW

The business outlook, so far as the domestic picture is concerned, remains good. If only our own internal problems were involved, it seems evident that this recovery movement would continue, at least for the next six or eight months, and that security prices would tend upward accordingly. However, there is an extremely large fly in the ointment—the European situation. That was vividly demonstrated in the week ending September 10. Industrial statistics were encouraging, there were no unusual or unlooked-for political complications, and the stage was set for a sustained rise in security prices. But prices sagged, and the week as a whole was disappointing on all counts—principally because of the fears of war.

It seems unlikely that this fear can be dissipated in the near future. Even if war does not occur before the end of this year—and, according to the experts, the chances are better than even that it will—the shadow of wars will darken the economic skies. Thus, it is to Europe, rather than to this country, that the student must look principally for guidance in anticipating what will happen to industry and to security values during the remainder of 1938.

Forgetting war problems for the moment, the figures indicate that the "recession" is definitely on the wane. No one looks for even anything resembling a boom such as that occurring at the end of 1936, which ran half-way through 1937 and exploded. The expectation is for steady, non-dramatic betterment in practically every line of industry and commerce. Here is the situation obtaining on a number of basic lines now:

Steel: Recently touched 44 per cent of capacity—about twice the level obtaining in early July. During eight of nine consecutive weeks for which this column has data, improvement was registered.

Motors: Lately hit its low production point of the year, which is entirely normal, as it will not be long until the new models begin streaming off the assembly lines. By the time this is read, production should be at a good level, and increasing rapidly. Reports of what the new cars will be like are conflicting. It has been generally reported that there will be little change in most makes; more recently, rumor says that manufacturers are now planning more ambitious experiments and improvements.

Construction: Non-residential building is still down. Residential building, on the other hand, is well up, and rising. In August, this kind of construction was 18 per cent ahead of last year. Big factor is the government-insured long-term loan plan, under which a builder may obtain as much as 90 per cent of his house and lot's value and take up to 25 years to pay it off.

Electric power: This reliable barometer of industrial affairs in general shows strength. The summer decline was not more than seasonal in intensity. And the fall and winter outlook is good.

Railroads: Car loadings have been up a little, but not enough to keep scores of lines out of the red. The industry is tied up in wage negotiations, which have been complicated by the brotherhoods' refusal to accept federal mediation of the managements' request for a general 15 per cent wage cut. A great deal of pressure is being brought from many quarters to have Congress take up possible legislation to save the industry, as soon as the next session opens.

Summing up, sentiment as a whole is now bullish. But keep your eye on Europe—what happens there could change the outlook tremendously overnight.

High quality cream for butter making is easily produced by following three important rules, states F. W. Burns, extension animal husbandman. These rules are: (1) produces clean cream, (2) cool cream promptly after separating it, and (3) market cream frequently.

To obtain lint of the best quality care in harvesting and handling seed cotton on the farm is just as important as care in ginning. The ginner can render his best service only if and when the farmer uses precaution in gathering his cotton, says J. B. Wilson, extension agricultural engineer.

The new wage-hour law becomes operative October 24. The minimum wages are 25 cents an hour and the maximum hours is fixed at 44.

SIX PRESIDENTS DIED IN OFFICE

The United States has had six presidents to die in office. William H. Harrison was elected in 1840 and died a year later. President Taylor began his term in 1848 and died in 1850. Lincoln was just starting his second term when he was assassinated in 1865. James A. Garfield was inaugurated in 1880 and was assassinated during the second year of his term. William McKinley was the victim of assassin bullets in 1901, a little over a year after he became president. W. G. Harding was elected in 1920 and died in 1923. Of the six presidents who have died in office three have died a natural death and three have been assassinated.

CLUBS INTEREST IN CONSERVATION

Members of Alabama 4-H clubs have a direct bearing on two important conservation measures needed in the state, announces J. B. Wilson, agricultural engineer of the Alabama Extension Service. They need to help conserve the soil and when they do this (by helping to plant "cover" on more than 3,000,000 waste acres) they will be going a long way toward conserving the state's wildlife.

If you can trust in God, you will always know how to pray. Trust God in that that you can do for yourself, but fail not to ask his blessing. The unforeseen contingency may defeat one's best plans. In that that you cannot do for yourself, pray earnestly. It is not the occasional need that should dictate and guide our prayers. All of life is a prayer.—Alabama Christian Advocate.

Paragraphic Pointers

Items From The Records

Peas and beans for planting next spring can be protected from weevils by storing them in air-slaked lime. For small amounts of peas the correct amount of lime is one pound to two pounds of peas. For large quantities one pound of lime should be mixed with three or four pounds of peas.

A definite program to help raise the income of farmers who have a gross cash income of less than $312 has been launched in Alabama by the Works Progress Administration. Low income farmers will be given employment near their homes in order to give them more money for the necessities of life. Applications can be made now at the county welfare offices.

P. O. Davis, director of the Alabama Extension Service, says there is enough dependable information obtained through scientific research available to cause a revolution in Alabama agriculture. This information has been obtained by the Alabama Experiment Station in every section of the state.

In a recent paragraph coming out of Montgomery it was stated that seven states had a higher gasoline tax rate than Alabama. This was an error. Only four states have a higher gasoline tax rate than Alabama. They are Arkansas, Florida, Louisiana, and Tennessee. Four others have the same rate as Alabama. They are Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, and South Carolina.

By clipping off the tops of Dallis grass, now beginning to head, and scattering these heads over the pasture the Alabama farmer can greatly increase the grazing capacity of his pastures, says J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist at Auburn.

There are 273,450 farms in Alabama valued at $368,219,828. The agricultural census of 1935 gives the farm population of Alabama as 1,386,024. The estimated population for the state that year was 2,834,000.

Hay can be no better than the meadow from which it is harvested. Good seed of the right crop, if seeded at the proper time in a well prepared seedbed, will usually result in a good stand. Good stands tend to retard weed growth and give relatively high yields of hay of desirable texture.

By use of a cotton drier it is possible to obtain a fine sample of cotton, according to Will Howard Smith, Autauga County farmer. Cotton put through the drier will bring a considerable premium over cotton ginned green or damp. The drier is built by a government plan developed at the federal gin laboratory at Stoneville, Miss.

THE NEWSPAPERMAN

When a young man, who has decided that he will be an editor, comes into possession of machinery with which to produce a newspaper, his heart swells with pride, he rolls up his sleeves and starts into his life's work.

The average young man is a natural reformer. He sees flaws in political circles, in civic life, even in the fellow citizens who walk in life's pathway nearby.

As the years pass and his writings have changed nothing, perhaps have made a few enemies and a precarious living, the editor takes stock of himself and becomes broader—he is learning some sense.

As the years roll past, the editor's head grows gray with the hair that still remains on it, and his typewriter is a little rickety, just as he is. He begins to write things that really have weight in the community. He has been weighed and found wanting in many things, but the public has decided that he is a pretty good fellow and really believe in his sincerity, whether they agree with what he writes or not.

Then, when the editor is facing the setting sun, there seems to come from his pen, in many instances, the wisdom of years and experience; he has cooled down, is tolerant and ripe; he knows that he cannot reform the world and also needs reforming himself. So he goes marching on through the printed columns of his paper, a part of the community, a cog in the mighty wheel of human life, squeaking a little as all old machinery will, but without fear and quietly stating his opinion without fear and hoping still to do his part toward an upward trend of his city and state.

And when the last edition is locked up and goes to press, and the old editor hangs "30" over his desk and falls into that long sleep that knows no end, he is mourned by the community as having led the people to a higher and a better way of thinking.

The editor of this paper has seen this happen in the case of many newspaper men, and has decided as follows: One man doesn't count much in the scheme of things, for he's soon forgotten; but what he stands for will not be forgotten—it is like a ripple on the water that spreads and grows larger after the old editor is laid to rest in some quiet spot where the cares of the world cannot reach him.—The Montgomery Weekly.

We have recently been informed that the "Stork" is not only changing more these days, but what it brings is costing a lot more too. — The Lowndes Signal.

Phew! What will these women editors bring up next!—Alexander City Outlook.

Yeah, and to make it even worse, after you have paid more for what the stork brings, you can never tell what it will grow up to be!

What would happen if all the Czechs and all the Germans thumbed their respective noses at their respective rulers and said, "We ain't gonna fight?" We'd like to know.—Montgomery Advertiser.

Our guess is that if the Germans and Czechs did this they would be acting with ordinary common sense and judgment. If all the people of the world would refuse to fight every time some of the "big boys" got their high and mighty importance trampled upon by the other country, this old world could settle down to a normal existence, without the fear of war. To our way of thinking, such a situation would come just about as near to a guarantee of everlasting peace as any method which could be devised. Loyalty to one's government and homeland is to be desired at all times, but if it takes the lives of countless millions to preserve this loyalty, then we should for humanity's sake, try not to be so loyal unless the actual safety of the nation is at stake.

The Dothan Eagle has installed a private branch exchange telephone system and invites everyone to "call us up sometimes," and bawl us out. That's anticipating the thing, we say.—Alexander City Outlook.

To the average newspaper editor, to be called up and "bawled out," is almost as much to be desired as to be called up and complimented. We long since learned that we could not please everyone about everything which we print, and if we occasionally get "bawled out," we at least can be happy with the thought that we are being read with some degree of interest by the people of our community. So, we too, say "call us up sometime, and bawl us out." We like it.

MARVELS THAT KEEP YOUR ELECTRIC SERVICE DEPENDABLE

No. 3 of a Series

"In a recent series of advertisements, I told you about some of the men and women who help keep your Alabama Power electric service dependable. This series, which I hope you'll read, tells about some of the 'Miracle Machines' developed by private industry which utilize or combat the forces of Nature so your electric service will be the best you can get for the money."

—REDDY KILOWATT

HOT STICKS

HAVE you ever seen a line crew at work on wires and wondered how it is possible for the men to carry on their work while high-voltage electricity coursed through the wires? They weren't always able to do this. Before the invention and perfection (by private enterprise with private funds) of "hot sticks," which are mechanical "fingers" with an uncanny ability to grasp and move electrical wires and their smaller accessories, it was necessary to "kill" an electric line before any work could be done on it, and thus interrupt your use of electric service. Today, electric lines carrying thousands of volts can be worked on without interruption of service, with little hazard to the men, due to the development of "hot sticks" and other protective devices and methods. In only rare exceptions where some heavy piece of equipment must be changed or an unusually severe storm has caused extraordinary damage, is it now necessary to take an Alabama Power Company line "out of service." Even so, there are "loop" circuits, so the interruption is only local.

Equipping line crews with hot sticks, so that they may work more safely and with as little interruption as possible to the flow of electricity over the wires to your home or place of business, is another example of the effort constantly to improve and keep dependable your electric service.

Note: Since the appearance of the first of these advertisements, we have received requests for copies of the entire series. It is therefore planned, when the series is concluded, to reproduce them in booklet form. Interested persons may have complimentary copies of the booklet by writing Dept. 319, Alabama Power Company, Birmingham.

"Alexander's Rag Time Band" At Strand Theatre Next Week

Alexander's Ragtime Band

Mr. J. R. Lewis is staying at home these days in order to avoid the irritation which the outside air causes to his hay fever. "Yes, I am in jail," he said Tuesday, "but it is better to be confined at home than to get out and suffer the effects of the dry dust-laden atmosphere."

Dates Are Sunday and Thursday and Friday

"Alexander's Ragtime Band" is greater than they said it was.

Periodically Hollywood produces a picture that stands out as a beacon along the highroad of motion picture progress—and such a picture is Darryl F. Zanuck's production of Irving Berlin's great saga of three decades in the march of America.

Add story to cast and direction and the 20th Century-Fox film at the Strand Theatre Sunday, September 25, and Thursday and Friday, September 29-30, amounts to a picture that for years to come will be remembered as a turning point—a new trend—the utilization of memorable melodies in a dramatic story of the screen's mightiest moment.

In the bewildering brilliance of "Alexander" one remembers that Tyrone Power starts with a small band in a honky-tonk. Don Ameche writes the tunes which Alice Faye sings. Love smolders, flares, cools, blows up and is rekindled over the years for Tyrone and Alice. History moves before the eyes with the reminiscent melodies of Berlin as a gentle guide through the plot.

Such a story framework — the career of a young musician and the girl who sang the nation's love songs — two hotheads quarreling and parting, forgiving and finding love again through the music that was their life—is novel and scintillating.

Add to this story, score and cast Director Henry King, fresh from his triumph in "In Old Chicago."

King's direction has that touch of perfection that gives every scene, particularly the romantic phases, the finish of a masterpiece. Alice Faye never was more beautiful nor did she ever sing or perform with greater effect. Tyrone Power and Don Ameche are equally tremendous in vividly contrasting portrayals. Ethel Merman, who comes into the story later, handles a role with her usual spirit. Jack Haley and Chick Chandler lend a comedy touch as members of the band and later as soldier pals of Tyrone's.

Jean Hersholt and Helen Westley take efficient care of roles as music teacher and young Power's aunt. Paul Hearst is a standout in his part as a friendly bartender and John Carradine delivers a fine portrayal as a taxi driver. There, too, are fine portrayals by Wally Vernon, Ruth Terry, Douglas Fowley and Eddie Collins.

BOY SCOUTS

Cabin Hope Revived

With the coming of fall and winter, the Scouts are faced with the problem of a meeting place where we can "let ourselves go." Inside the high school, our temporary meeting place, we have to be easy with the furniture. So, therefore, we have been busy most of the summer trying to work out some means by which we can secure a cabin in which to hold our meetings. We sincerely hope that it may soon be arranged so that we can proceed with the plans for our cabin.

New Patrol Leaders

Since some of our most important members have departed to go to school, we were forced to re-organize. The four new patrol leaders are Billy Rotenberry, Bob Barnes, Wiley Fancher, and Fred Pearson.

Initiation

There will be an initiation of members in the near future. We are all looking forward to this.

HEATH FAMILY REUNION HELD LAST SUNDAY

A re-union of the Heath family was held last Sunday at Charlton Smith Springs, honoring Mr. and Mrs. John Zarko, of San Francisco, California, on their sixth wedding anniversary.

A barbecue dinner was served to the following guests in attendance:

Mr. and Mrs. John Zarko; Miss Madge Fort, of Mobile; Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Elliott; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Heath; Mrs. Mildred Heath Gresham, of Tuscaloosa; Mr. E. C. Heath, Jr., of Tuscaloosa; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Elliott; Mrs. J. A. Estes, of Bessemer; Mr. Deon Elliott; Mrs. G. P. Heath, mother of Mrs. Zarko; Mr. A. P. Heath and son, Andy; Mr. C. E. Heath.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this means of thanking our neighbors, friends, and relatives for the many kindnesses, messages of love and understanding, and for the beautiful floral offerings, during our recent bereavement.—Mrs. Luther T. Chesnut, Sr., and Family, Willis A. Lester and Family, Robert M. Lester and Family.

WILTON NEWS

Rev. and Mrs. A. B. Canant and family moved to Louisville Monday where Mr. Canant accepted the position as pastor of the Baptist Church there. We were sorry to lose these good folk from our community. Bro. Canant was the pastor of the Baptist Church here for seven years, and leaves many good friends in our town.

Mr. Wesley Little of Selma visited Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ambrose Sunday.

Mr. Will Sims of Bessemer is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Splawn.

Rev. T. W. Wooten of Birmingham will preach at the Baptist Church here on Sunday at morning and evening services.

Mr. Earl W. Hotalen of Montgomery, secretary of the Alabama Temperance Alliance, will speak at the Baptist Church here on Saturday night at 7:30. His address will be directed against repeal. We want you to come and help support this fearless man as he depicts the evils of alcohol, basing his statements on facts derived from data concerning this evil.

Mr. Clifford Gregg of Tuscaloosa spent the week-end with his mother, Mrs. Winnie Gregg.

Mr. Grover Cleveland of York spent the week-end at home.

Mrs. Bessie Hoskins, Mrs. Dodie Whetlock, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Day and Rita Joyce, and Mrs. Flora Bailey of Montevallo were Sunday

MATTRESS SCHOOLS

Mattress schools sponsored by Shelby County Home Demonstration Clubs have been scheduled over the county by the home demonstration agent as follows:

Montevallo—Legion Hutt, Monday, September 26.

Midway—Community House, Thursday, September 29.

Chelsea—Weldon's Store, Friday, September 29.

Caldis—Section house, Monday, October 3.

Leaders from nearby communities will attend these schools to receive instructions in mattress making methods. The public is cordially invited to visit these schools on the days scheduled.

TEMPERANCE SPEAKER AT CHURCHES

Rev. W. Earl Hotalen, secretary of the Alabama Temperance Alliance, will speak at the following times and places:

Saturday, September 24, Wilton, 7:30 p.m.

Sunday, September 25, 11 a.m., Siluria Baptist Church; 3 p.m., Calera Methodist Church; 7:30 p.m., Montevallo Methodist Church.

Monday, September 26, 7:30 p.m., Blue Springs Church.

guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Day and family.

Mrs. B. B. Fancher is visiting in Selma this week.

Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Martin spent Saturday in Birmingham.

Misses Mary and Jean Logan of Calera and Prattville spent the week end at home.

But It's True

Some 500,000 years ago the Hudson river found its mouth a hundred miles out of New York, in what is now the Atlantic ocean. The end of the river came suddenly, in the form of the most tremendous waterfall ever known, as far as geologists are able to determine.

Twenty-three years ago Miss Annett suffered a broken neck in an accident on the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad. It was believed she would live only a short while, and the railroad company agreed to pay her $700 a month until her death. She's still alive, but can move about only in a wheelchair. Recently the railroad petitioned a court to be relieved of this injury settlement.

LISTEN TO THIS

By TOM FIZDALE

Radio's biggest all-star show will come to the air October 5 over the Columbia network when the new Star Theatre featuring such outstanding theatrical personalities as Adolphe Menjou, Una Merkel, Charlie Ruggles, Jane Froman, Kenny Baker, Max Reinhardt and his newly-created "Workshop," David Broekman's orchestra and Jimmy Wallington, all under the personal direction of Bill Bacher, makes its debut, under the sponsorship of the Texas company. The big hour program will be heard at 9:30 p. m., EST; 8:30 p. m., CST; 6:30 p. m., PST. The Reinhardt "Workshop" will do dramatic presentations especially written for each program by outstanding Hollywood writers and will feature radio, stage and motion picture celebrities. It is by far the most pretentious program ever offered listeners on a weekly basis and must be radio's outstanding show for the new fall season. Menjou will act as master-of-ceremonies for the broadcasts; Ruggles and Merkel will provide the comedy for which they are so famous; the beautiful Froman and Kenny Baker will be the featured vocalists. You might as well make a date to be near your radio each Wednesday night.

Una Merkel

Fayette Krum, who writes that popular "Girl Alone" drama which expands its NBC network under sponsorship late this month, was a top-flight newspaper woman before she took up scripting. Now she writes and sails her own boat for recreation. "Girl Alone" action is authentic in every detail because authoress Krum knows both her girls and her newspapers.

Skinney Ennis, former Hal Kemp bandsman who has been heading his own band for some time, has been named to handle the music and the vocals on the new Bob Hope variety show from Hollywood over NBC. Ennis was one of the most popular band-singers on the air before he formed his own orchestra, and this is his first big break in his own name.

A novel figure enters the radio dramatic field when "Her Honor, Nancy James," starring Barbara Weeks, noted actress, makes its bow over a CBS network on October 3. Under the same sponsorship that originally brought "The Story of Mary Marlin" to the air, "Her Honor, Nancy James," will bring listeners a new, vitally fresh personality in the story of a woman who is striving to solve the social, civic and personal problems of a typical American town, but finds it difficult to keep her business and personal life separate. How she again becomes involved in the life of a man she formerly loved and rises to power in the city promises to be a highly interesting story.

Little Barbara Dvorak, heard with comedy star Billy House on those CBS Sunday "Laugh Liner" broadcasts, is one of the few radio performers on big shows affected by school beginning again. The top-notch little actress is in the second grade of elementary school and, you might guess, excels in reading.

Bill Perry, featured with Mary Eastman as soloist on "Saturday Night Serenade—Your Pet Program" returning to CBS October 1, entered radio in reverse. After attending Peabody College and Vanderbilt University, he became manager of a radio station in Nashville... only to quit that job to become a singer.

Hoffman's Store Adds More Stock

Line Includes Everything From Variety and Notions Items To Suits

As the winter season approaches Hoffman's store in Montevallo continues to add to its stock, thereby becoming fully capable of filling the needs of its customers.

Hoffman's stock now runs all the way from the smallest variety and notions item to the biggest suit or overcoat needed in Shelby County. In between these may be found anything that anybody needs, regardless of shape, size or color.

During the past summer this popular store has added a large addition to its building. This increase in space has made possible several new departments, Shoes, clothing, coats, hats, all are now displayed in individual departments. These lines are new, full, complete and attractive.

Hoffman's has had a wonderful record of growth in the two years the store has been in Montevallo.

Y. W. A. MEETING

The Baptist Y. W. A. met Friday, September 16, at the home of their leader, Mrs. Hare.

After song, scripture, and prayer, they entered into a roundtable discussion of their coming promotion to the other societies.

Miss Frances Reid and Miss Mary Nell Gardner were promoted to the college Y. W. A. Miss Marjorie Langston to the business women's circle, and Mrs. Idella Wallace to the W. M. S.

Many were the expressions of love and thanks to the faithful leader all these years, each resolving to do greater mission work in the future.

After refreshments they sang "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," and closed with prayer.

Sunday In The Churches

BAPTIST

Dr. Pearson will preach Sunday morning on the theme, "My Brother's Keeper." At 7:30 p.m. a union service will be held at the Methodist Church. Rev. W. Earl Hotalen, Executive Secretary of the Alabama Temperance Alliance, will speak.

The Missionary Society will meet at the church Monday afternoon

LAYING OF WATER MAINS IS PROGRESSING RAPIDLY

The new water main extending from the Lyman place to Dr. Steckel's residence is almost completed. This makes possible some much-needed fire hydrants on the Highlands.

EDDIE'S NOT CRAZY!

When you read the Strand Theatre's dates for showing "Alexander's Rag Time Band," you will wonder why it is on Sunday the 25th and then on Thursday and Friday, the 29th and 30th.

We cannot explain it, neither can Eddie. But that's it, just the same.

"I know it sounds crazy," said Mr. Watson, "but I know I am not crazy."

"I wanted to give our patrons more than one day of this most wonderful production and in order to get more than one, I had to take three. Hence, the curious arrangement."

Anyway, three days is not too much for a picture of the superlative quality of "Alexander's Rag Time Band."

Don't forget the dates: Next Sunday, September 25, and Thursday and Friday, September 29 and 30.

FIRST QUAIL DISTRIBUTED

Planting of the first Bob White quail raised at the State Conservation Department's game farm in Autauga County started last week when a truckload of birds left the farm Friday, September 16, for distribution in several north Alabama counties. Commissioner I. T. Quinn said that approximately 6,000 quail would be released within the next few weeks, with every county in the state getting an equal share. Lands on which the birds are planted are chosen by local conservation clubs and sportsmen's groups with landowners and clubs operating under a joint agreement for protection of the birds. The quail, transported from the farm in a department truck, are delivered to the respective game committees of the local clubs, who release them on the specified lands. This is the first full season that the game farm has operated, and the supply of birds will be limited. Commissioner Quinn pointed out that it will be impossible to stock all the lands on which applications have been received, but every county will receive an equal share of birds. Production is expected to increase next year.

proposal to legalize and regulate the sale of whisky in the county. The wet and dry issue will not be involved in next Tuesday's election, for Shelby is already wet—dripping wet. Beer and whisky are sold all over the county. And much of the whisky which floods the county is moonshine, the product of illicit stills hid out in the woods and hills of the county and subject to no rules of purity, sanitation or alcoholic content.

Right now Calera is the center of the most flagrant violations in the county. Calera is not a large community but it becomes monotonous checking up on places within the city limits and nearby where either whisky or beer or both may be purchased. Just out of the business district, and facing the Montgomery Highway, a filling station and garage sells iced beer to all comers. Whisky, too, may be purchased at that spot.

Just north of the city limits, on the same highway, a roadside dance resort serves iced beer. And just south of the business district, on the highway, a tourist camp offers the same beverage.

Ice cold beer also is sold more or less openly in several residences, both within the city limits and just outside. Moonshine whisky is sold by the bottle or by the drink—at 10 cents a drink—at several residences and at a ramshackle store in the business district. If the purchaser cares to make the heavier investment, state-stamped whisky, brought in from counties where it is sold legally, may be had at most of the bootlegging places.

But the experience that provided the greatest shock came when a friend in Calera offered to show that children may be summoned from their play and sent to purchase whisky.

Summoned from somewhere on the street, a 10-year-old boy responded promptly and when a half-dollar and a quarter were handed him he disappeared up an alley, returning in not more than five minutes with a pint of whisky in a paper sack. The delivery was made just around a corner in an alley behind Calera's main business street.

Where the whisky was obtained is purely a matter of conjecture. At least, the experience served to show that this boy, and likely any others, could have obtained the whisky for his own use as well as for sale.

Sale of beer all over Shelby County is mainly along the highways. Storage and cooling of beer provides a problem and only those places having considerable sales volume are willing to be bothered. Throughout the entire length of the Montgomery Highway through the county roadside stands sell beer. One place, several miles north of Calera, even gives curb service on this forbidden beverage.

The bulk of whisky sold in the county is moonshine. "Shelby County corn" became a by-word in prohibition days and it is still made in large quantities, although very little of it now leaves the county's borders.

Prices on this moonshine whisky range from 65 cents a pint upward. State-stamped whisky may be purchased at many places, its price ranging but slightly higher than in liquor stores. This is probably because the competition offered by moonshine liquor will not allow a heavy profit to those who haul legal whisky in from wet counties.

Last Monday morning a farmer from near Calera was selling on the streets some homemade peach brandy. Offered at $3 a gallon, his entire supply was quickly snapped up. He admitted he had some more at home. He makes the beverage from fruit out of his own peach orchard.

In all of Shelby County, perhaps the fewest liquor law violations are to be found at Montevallo. Little bootlegging goes on right in town, although moonshine can be purchased at a Negro house "under the hill" within the city limits. Out on the Montevallo-Centerville Road a number of places sell the forbidden liquors.

Whether this condition around Montevallo is due to better enforcement or to the absence of demand, or to a combination of both, is not entirely clear. At any rate, alcoholic beverages are relatively scarce in this community.

But there are other bad spots in the county. From Columbiana, the county seat, eastward, conditions are far from good. Another article, which will appear Friday, will picture conditions in that section. —The Birmingham News.

Shelby Against Legal Liquor Store

Rose Bampton Is First On Concert

Top-Ranking Personalities Will Be Presented In Series This Year

A series of top-ranking musical, literary and artistic attractions has been arranged for the benefit of the 1938-39 student body of Alabama College, the largest in the institution's history.

First offering is Rose Bampton, dramatic soprano, famed for performances in concert, in opera, and with orchestra accompaniment, who will sing at 8:15 p.m. in Palmer Hall on Wednesday, October 5.

Next will be Carl Sandburg, regarded by many as America's "most truly native poet," who will speak on the evening of November 2. Mr. Sandburg is among the world's best known living poets.

Lady Hay Drummond-Hay, England's great newspaper woman, comes to Montevallo December 2. She was aboard the Graf Zeppelin on its historic round-the-world flight, covered the Ethiopian and Chinese-Japanese Wars, and is expected to speak here on her adventures in many parts of the world with rebels and dictators.

Joseph Sziget, violinist, who plays January 13, is one of the most sought-after artists in his field. He has filled engagements this year with the New York, Cincinnati, and Philadelphia Symphony Orchestras.

Other numbers include Soo Yong, of stage and screen, known as the "Chinese Cornelia Otis Skinner," February 3; the Humphrey-Weidman Concert Dance Group, March 1-2; and as a climax to the season, the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra on March 23.

All students at Alabama College attend the series on their regular college fees. Others may obtain season tickets at $4.50, or separate admissions by writing to the Concert and Lecture Committee.

BROWN OPENS BAG BUSINESS IN BIRMINGHAM

Mr. J. A. Brown announces that he has opened a business in Birmingham, known as the Brown Bag Company. This business will serve as a sales agency for burlap bags, cotton bagging and ties, which are manufactured by the Alabama Bagging and Tie Company, at its plant in Montevallo.

The Birmingham district offers a large market for the kind of products made by Mr. Brown here. And he has well-founded hopes that his Birmingham sales office will serve successfully in placing his products in that territory.

Montevallo Club To Observe Business Women's Week

The local chapter of Business and Professional Women is looking forward to the observance of Business Women's Week, the week of October 9 to 16 having been chosen for national celebration of that event.

Plans are being made whereby the Montevallo club will not only participate in the national program, but the community will be given information as to the activities of the organization.

Community Chest For Next Year

Assembly Meets To Elect Officers And Board and To Make Plans for Work

The Montevallo Community Chest Assembly, with representatives from twenty organizations present, held its annual meeting last Thursday evening.

The following persons represented the different organizations:

Studios Club, Mrs. Edwin Allen. Montevallo Study Club, Frances L. Givhan.

Business and Professional Women's Club, Miss Josephine Eddy.

American Legion, P. D. D. Pendleton.

American Legion Auxiliary, Mrs. Fred H. Frost.

Parent-Teachers Association, Mrs. Murray Fancher.

D. A. R., Mrs. W. J. Kennerly.

Girl Scout Council, Mrs. J. L. Appleton.

Boy Scout Council, W. M. Wyatt.

County Welfare Program, Mrs. Percy Walburn (Columbiana).

U. D. C., Mrs. C. H. Mahaffey.

Alabama College Social Service Program, Miss Myrtle Brooke.

Methodist Church, A. W. Vaughan.

Presbyterian Church, W. J. Kennerly.

Baptist Church, R. A. Reid.

Montevallo Elementary School, Mrs. Charlotte Peterson.

A. A. U. W., Miss Edythe Saylor.

Montevallo Civic Club, Charles Dobbins.

Alabama College, Isobel Campbell Bruce.

The annual report of the Chest Board was read, officers for the 1938-39 year were elected, and the nine members of the Board for the year beginning October 1 were selected.

As chairman of the Assembly, W. M. Wyatt succeeds A. W. Vaughan, and the latter was elected secretary. The members of the Board which will conduct the business of the Chest for next year are:

W. M. Wyatt, Mrs. E. P. Hood, Mrs. Fred Frost, Mrs. Percy Walburn, Director of County Welfare;

F. P. Givhan, J. P. Kelly, F. B. Pearson, R. A. Reid, and Miss Waurene Jones.

This group will meet at an early date to organize, elect a treasurer, and plan the work of the year. It is expected that the annual campaign for subscriptions will be conducted during the month of October.

The annual report of the Board which The Times expects to print in full at an early date showed that the business of the Chest has been conducted with great care, that the service rendered to needy cases has been varied and impressive in amount and that the recreational needs of the town are being better served than ever before.

ALUMNAE ASSOCIATION

Montevallo chapter of the Alabama College Alumnae Association will meet Tuesday, October 4, at 7:30 p.m. in West Main Parlor.

PRIMA DONNA

ROSE BAMPTON, leading soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Association. Miss Bampton appears in recital at Palmer Hall Wednesday, October 5, at 8:15 p.m. This is the first number on the Alabama College Concert and Lecture Series for 1938-1939. Admission is by season ticket or $1.50.

Changes of Past Eighteen Years

It was a pleasure to have as a visitor to Montevallo this week Dr. George H. Zerbst, formerly head of the chemistry and physics department at Alabama College. Dr. Zerbst is now health officer of two South Carolina counties, Sumter and Clarendon.

Interesting to note were the changes which Dr. Zerbst listed as having occurred in our city since he was located here 18 years ago.

He recalled the terrible streets and sidewalks of those days. He impressed us with the statement that it was practically an impossibility to go from town to the College without a flashlight, there being very few street lights, and the gravel paths were filled with such large rocks that one would stumble along, never knowing whether he would reach his destination intact or not.

Dr. Zerbst recalled that the College has, since he was here, erected the Library, Hanson Hall, Ramsay Hall, Palmer Hall, the new dairy, and has made remarkable improvements in the power plant.

The business section of the town, he said, has made many improvements, which are impressive to a visitor who has not been here in 18 years. He remembered that where Jeter's store is now located was the remnants of what a fire had left, a very unimposing mass of debris. The old Kroell stables, he recalled, occupied the corner across from the St. George Hotel, where Towery Motor Company is now. The change in the front of the hotel building has been made since he was here. Paying high compliment to our new postoffice building, he declared it is a structure that would do credit, even to a much larger city.

Dr. Zerbst found a great many changes in the residential section, stating that he would have never known the town, had he not found a few remaining landmarks.

Except for three members, the entire teaching staff at the College has changed since he was a member of the faculty. He mentioned a few of the present officers who were here at that time: Miss Lee, Mr. Wills, Dr. Peck, and a few others.

While here Dr. Zerbst renewed some of his old friendships with different families of the community, and expressed regret that his limited time made it impossible for him to see all of them.

When Dr. Zerbst left here the College was known as the Alabama Girls' Technical Institute. Later it became the Alabama Girls' Technical Institute and College for Women, and then Alabama College. Then it was principally a high school, just beginning to undertake college work. Our visitor expressed a desire to return to Montevallo when he might have more time to see everything and everybody.

Notice

Throughout Shelby County children are unable to enroll in school or to attend regularly due to lack of clothing and books. Any parents of children who have outgrown clothing or out of date books can help give educational opportunities to these other less fortunate children. There is also a constant demand of clothing for adults, for bedding and household supplies. Contributions may be left at the Sociology Building or will be called for if the message is left by telephoning 128.

Repeal Swamped In Tuesday Vote

Incomplete Returns Show Overwhelming Victory For Dry Forces

Incomplete and unofficial returns given out at the Courthouse in Columbiana Wednesday afternoon show that the dry forces of Shelby County won a decisive victory in Tuesday's election, rolling up 1895 votes, against a measley 731 for the repeal cause.

These figures, it was said, do not include the vote from one box in the county.

Vote By Boxes

The Times was not able to obtain figures on all voting places. The following are given as more or less random reports from 10 of the 28 boxes:

	Dry	Wet
Columbiana	306	104
Calera	187	82
Newala	30	6
Montevallo	175	66
Wilsonville	130	15
Vincent	96	14
Harpersville	78	22
Creswell	36	1
Chelsea	40	1
Absentees	62	57

Where did anybody get the idea that Shelby County is in favor of repeal of its prohibition law, anyhow?

Who signed the petition calling the election? The dry forces were going to publish the names, but backed out for some reason. Maybe they will make it public now. Wonder if there were as many repeal votes as there were signers on the petition.

Thanks to Fisher

The question had two sides last week, but it looks like only one side this week—and that the opposite from Harold Fisher. By the way, some of the dries hint that they will send a message of thanks to Mr. Fisher for the splendid help he rendered their cause by his publicity in the Birmingham News.

After all, what's the difference? If you want whisky, you can get it right on, unless there is a heap more done than merely voting dry by a big majority.

CIVIC CLUB

At the meeting of Montevallo Civic Club last Wednesday the following committees were announced by Dr. J. I. Riddle, acting for President J. R. Lewis, absent on account of illness:

Membership and Attendance—W. M. Wyatt, chairman; J. H. Henning, Walter M. Shaw.

Program and Publicity—C. G. Dobbins, chairman; Gordon McCloskey, Stanley Mahan.

Hospitality—T. H. Napier, chairman; Stanley White, Dr. F. B. Pearson.

Roads—Dr. J. I. Reid, chairman; Bill Holley, Jap Holcombe.

Commercial Development—L. E. Shaw, chairman; M. P. Jeter, J. A. Brown.

Town Improvements—Dr. A. F. Harman, chairman; Robin Hood, Dr. Chas. T. Acker.

Scout Troop Committee—Dr. A. W. Vaughan, chairman; T. E. Watson, O. R. Burns, W. M. Wyatt.

Negro School—R. A. Reid, chairman; F. P. Givhan, M. P. Jeter, J. Alex Moore.

NOTICE

Any persons who have bills against the Montevallo Community Chest are requested to turn same in to me before October 5 in order that settlement may be made before the books close for this year.—F. P. Givhan, Ch'm., Community Chest Board.

Alabama Farm Bureau Endorses Gas Tax Amendment

A statement released from Montgomery by Mr. A. C. Montgomery, director of the educational campaign of the Alabama Motorists Association, in sponsoring Constitutional Amendment No. 1 before the voters of Alabama in the general election on November 8, requiring all state gasoline and special motor vehicle tax revenues to be spent exclusively for road purposes, discloses that the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation is the most recent organization to actively endorse Amendment No. 1.

Farmers, as a group, have a very vital interest in road development because they pay somewhere in the neighborhood of 25 per cent of all gasoline and other special motor vehicle tax revenues. Also, whether or not a farmer owns a motor vehicle, he is interested in good roads because good roads improve the value of his property, provide better means for delivering his products to market, and provide a safer means of transporting his children to and from school. Consequently, the farmer naturally is interested in anything that will hurry up the development of farm-to-market roads, Mr. Montgomery said.

The resolution endorsing the amendment by the Farm Bureau Federation is as follows:

"Whereas, a proposed constitutional amendment will be submitted to the voters of Alabama in November, the said amendment to require all state gasoline and other special motor vehicle tax revenues to be spent exclusively for the construction and maintenance of roads, streets and bridges and for the financing of road, street and bridge obligations, and

"Whereas, we feel that all members of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation are heartily in accord with the provisions of this proposed amendment and

Whereas, the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation is anxious to see that roads and bridges and streets are improved and that more farm-to-market roads be constructed:

Therefore, be it resolved, that the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation go on record as approving the provisions of this proposed amendment and that the members support this amendment and that they attempt to inform all farmers and farm women of the provisions of this amendment and ask their support in its passage."

THE OTHER Editor's Viewpoint From the Press of the State

The Maelstrom of Events in Europe

Europe is moving so swiftly and so uncertainly these days that a newspaper making its comment one hour may find itself behind the tide when the paper goes to press an hour later. The kaleidoscope of Europe never stops its mad whirl.

And just as events change, with their tendency ever in doubt, so also are opinions in a state of violent flux, both individually and nationally. Here is not a case where one can be dogmatically positive. The best that one can say is that right now, in the light of present known facts, this seems so and so, or that appears to be the truth.

It can be safely said that the sympathies of the United States lie generally with Czechoslovakia, a democracy to which we come close to being a godfather. Our emotions in this country are all set against dictatorships and authoritarianism. Because of these emotions, we are prone to condemn Britain and France for their apparent desertion of Czechoslovakia.

But we are 4,000 miles or better away from any scene of conflict. Our concern, while it may be real and important, must remain academic compared to the concern of every European nation. We can see ideals where for Europe ideals may be obscured by hard realities.

It is easy to say here in America that we would not let Hitler bluff us. It is easy to declare that while we recognize inequalities and injustices in the post-war treaties, that we shall consider adjustments of those inequalities only around the conference table and not under threat of arms. It is easy for us to have sympathies for minorities and to rail against a bullying nation that has no respect for its own minorities. It is so easy to do a number of things—here in America.

But what would we do were we in France or England? What would we do if we were told by a man who can dictate to 70,000,000 servile followers that we must give him his way or else face a war of doubtful outcome? What would we do if we knew that upon our decision rested the fate not of a nation 4,000 miles away but of our brothers and sons? What would we do and say if faced with a war not for some other people but for ourselves? What would be our position and our course if the sound of rolling drums was in our ears?

It is difficult for us here in America to put ourselves in the position of the democratic peoples of Europe. But only to the extent to which we do this can we get a proper approach to their problems.

Economic Highlights

From INDUSTRIAL NEWS REVIEW

The President's "purge" of recalcitrants in the Democratic Party has been an almost complete failure. That fact is now admitted by friends as well as enemies of the New Deal.

Every important senator against whom Mr. Roosevelt spoke in his recent sweep about the country has been renominated—and in every case by a handsome margin. The President was apparently especially eager to get rid of Senators George, Tydings and Smith, all of whom have opposed various White House sponsored measures, including the famous judicial reorganization bill. Senator Smith won with hardly a struggle. Senator George was renominated easily over a field of three—and the President's candidate, Lawrence Camp, ran a poor third. And Senator Tydings was given an overwhelming accolade by Maryland voters.

Some men close to the White House say that Mr. Roosevelt was not surprised—that he did not expect his purge would succeed, and did not especially care, and that he looks on it as being simply the opening gun in a long pull struggle to rid his party of congressmen whom he feels are not liberal. This may or may not be true. What is definitely true is that the failure of the purge has tremendously weakened Mr. Roosevelt's political prestige and authority.

Had the purge been a success, Mr. Roosevelt would have completely dominated the next Democratic convention. Ninety out of a hundred delegates would have gone to it with but one thing in mind—to vote as the President wished. He could have had himself renominated for a third term or, had he not wished that, dictated the choice of his successor. Now, however, there seems to be at least an even chance that the next Democratic convention, while it will not be anti-Roosevelt, will not be controlled by the President. The unpurged senators will control large blocs of voters. They will have a strong following of men who are resentful of White House dictation. Furthermore, the fact that the purge has failed will undoubtedly encourage other congressmen, who have been sitting on the fence waiting to see how matters turn out, to bolt the traces.

In all probability, the next Congress will be far more independent than the last three. It knows that the voters are not willing to do whatever the President desires. It knows that opposition to White House measures is not necessarily a sure route to political oblivion. Thus, it seems certain that the country will shortly witness some dramatic and stirring battles between the executive and legislative branches of the government.

In the meantime, considerable speculation is going the rounds concerning possible results of the purge on the President's official family. It is known that Jim Farley was opposed to it from the beginning—Mr. Farley is a practical politician of great gifts and wants order and peace within the party. The fact that he left for Alaska and removed himself from the political fronts during the President's tour is considered extremely important in expert circles. Some say that the President will have to make a choice between keeping Mr. Farley or keeping his left wing advisors, such as the famed team of Cohen and Corcoran. Dispassionate observers tend to the view that Mr. Roosevelt will finally decide to keep Mr. Farley if matters come to a head—he is far too valuable a political asset to lose.

It now remains to be seen whether Mr. Roosevelt can regain the prestige he has lost. He has arisen from serious defeats before—but this is the most damaging blow he has yet received. And there seems to be little chance that he can regain his once iron-clad authority over the Congress.

Items From The Records

The textile industry employs more people than any other industry in Alabama, with the total number of wage earners in 1935 given at 39,628. That same year there were 17,886 wage earners engaged in the production of forest products while 17,624 were employed in the iron and steel industry. The wages paid to the textile workers that year amounted to $23,062,094, and to the forestry workers $7,487,944. The iron and steel workers received $14,771,757. These are the three leading industries in the employment of labor and wages paid.

Eleven bushels of corn alone are required to produce 100 pounds of pork. Six bushels of corn and 50 pounds of a mixture of equal parts of tankage and cottonseed meal will do the same thing. At current prices of tankage and cottonseed meal, 50 pounds of this supplement costs around a dollar. It will pay the hog raiser to use supplement unless he can produce corn for 20 cents a bushel, says F. W. Burns, extension animal husbandman.

High-producing dairy herd in the Alabama Dairy Herd Improvement Associations during August was owned by F. A. Cobb, Gadsden. The herd averaged 725 pounds of milk and 31.1 pounds of butterfat. During the month there were 44 herds in the association with a total of 1868 cows on test. The average feed cost per 100 pounds of milk was 67 cents.

Thousands of acres of creek and branch bottoms in Alabama now grown up in worthless scrub trees and bushes, if cleared, phosphated and seeded would enable farmers to add to their income by keeping a few additional head of livestock, says J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist.

The estimated yield of 225 pounds of cotton per acre this year is 65 pounds below the record yield of 290 pounds last year. It is still above the yield of 194 pounds for the ten-year average 1927-1936.

Since 1935 Alabama has increased its income from hogs 147.2 per cent or $4,549,000, according to J. D. Samford, extension economist. The number of hogs during the same period has been increased by 196,000 head.

There were 2,350,313 farms under mortgage in the United States in 1935. The number was reduced to 172,910 from 1930 to 1935. The number of farms under mortgage in Alabama was reduced from 89,890 in 1930 to 83,011 in 1935.

For seven years Alabama's government existed under a constitution that its citizens refused to ratify. This period was from 1868 to 1875. Many Negroes were members of the legislature during this period.

Two Giddy Games

Two fads are getting more or less attention of fun-loving citizens of these oft-times haywire United States of America. One of them is a parlor game called "stinky pinky," a sort of intellectual hop-scotch which glorifies the pun. The other is a curbstome and rocking chair game playing with the idea of a $30 a week pension for every receptive person over 50.

Between the two we'll take "stinky pinky." It is more practical, based on sterner stuff than the latest pension-for-everybody dream—and much more harmless.

The way to play "stinky pinky" is to get a group in a circle, think up a question, as for example: "What is a fowl at liberty?" The answer must be in two rhyming words, an adjective and a noun. The answer in this case might be: "Loose goose." Catch on?

Well, the possibilities to "stinky pinky" are unlimited. You can sit up all night and ask foolish questions and get foolish answers. And the next morning there is no headache, no regrets. It is an innocent game.

The $30-a-week pension may be a few shades wilder than "stinky pinky" and just as entertaining. But it is full of potential headaches.

If some imperial Utopian leader could set up a $30-a-week pension plan for everybody over 50—a plan that would work, we would still be a bit wary of it. But inasmuch as money is nothing more than oil for the mechanics of an economic system and has very little to do with the actual causes and effects of the economic machinery, we would prefer not to monkey with it.

A government could print enough paper money to give every man, woman and little child $200 a week, but the money probably would not buy as much as a sack of meal, if, indeed, meal would be available at all in a civilization in which work and production would be left only to the suckers who believed in it. For why work and produce when a pension would supply all the "comforts?"

But back to more important things and "stinky pinky." What is the $30-a-week pension plan? You start the game by answering that.—The Birmingham News.

It is hardly possible to define the $30-a-week pension plan in two words—but well do the best we can—"Utopian Imaginings."

Bringing the world-famous team of Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers together once more, RKO Radio's "Carefree" presents a glittering, joyous and song-studded film romance embellished with Irving Berlin melodies, startling dance routines and a deftly handled story.

The two stars, with cleverly drawn roles to enact as the psychiatrist and the actress, have unusual opportunities to display the talents that made them the world's premiere dancing duo, and Ralph Bellamy as the lawyer forms the third corner of the tumultuous triangle in what is perhaps his finest role to date.

The brilliant supporting cast is headed by Luella Gear, noted Broadway comedienne, and Jack Carson, hailed as the comedy "discovery" of the year, along with Clarence Kolb and Franklin Pangborn. Four of Irving Berlin's catchiest tunes, "The Night is Filled With Music," "I Used to Be Color Blind," "the Yam," and "Change Partners," are featured in the picture, and all four are in the top rank of popularity in the nation's song lists. There is a choral feature also by Robert B. Mitchell and his St. Brendan Boys.

The dance numbers of "Carefree," following the Astaire-Rogers tradition of introducing spectacular routines into their vehicles, are unusually diversified. They include the Golf Dance, a solo novelty by Astaire; the "Change Partners" routine, a sensational romantic ballroom dance; a dream fantasy number, and "The Yam," a colorful but simple ballroom routine, the first dance the two stars have ever presented which can, without revision, be performed by the general public, and which has caught on widely.

Mark Sandrich directed the Pandro S. Berman production, and the screen play was written by Dudley Nichols, Hagar Wilde, Allan Scott and Ernest Pegano.

Scarlet Fever Is Prevalent In County

Scarlet fever is unusually prevalent in Shelby County at present.

This disease usually attacks children but adults are not always immune unless they have had a previous attack.

The incubation period of scarlet fever is usually short, about 2 to 5 days. At the onset the patient is apt to develop fever, sore throat, general aching and vomiting. The rash usually appears on the second day of illness.

The complications of scarlet fever are some times severe, including ear infections, abscessed glands and damage to the kidneys.

Parents are urged to put their children to bed if any of the above symptoms develop, and notify their family doctor. Also to exclude all visitors, keep other children of the family out of the sick room, and allow no one to eat or drink after the patient.

A Message To The MOTOR VEHICLE OWNER and OPERATOR In Alabama

Mr. Alabama Motor Vehicle Owner:

Do you know what it costs in taxation to operate your car in this State?

Do you know that you and the Automobile Dealers in this State are paying directly and indirectly 58% of the total taxes of Alabama?

Nationally, Motor Car Owners pay one out of every seven tax dollars, or 14½%; while in Alabama you pay one out of every one dollar and seventy-two and one-half cents, or 58%.

Your motor vehicle is a necessity. It is no longer a luxury, but if added taxes are placed on the motor vehicle, it will again become a luxury in this State. It is you who pay after all. Study the figures below. Discuss them with the incoming members of the Legislators representing you, for this is as vital to you as to the Motor Car Merchant.

Here Are The Figures . . . Study Them, They Affect Your Pocketbook

FISCAL YEAR ENDING SEPTEMBER 30, 1937

Total Income From Taxes	$39,859,147.07
Less Unemployment Insurance	$ 7,517,091.05
Net	$32,342,056.02

MOTOR VEHICLE TAXES, DIRECTLY AND INDIRECTLY

License Tags	$ 3,577,159.60
Gasoline Tax	13,132,149.01
Dealers Licenses	61,425.00
Drivers License	206,691.64
Ad Valorem Taxes	555,516.00
	$17,532,941.25

THE ABOVE TOTAL, $17,532,941.25, DOES NOT INCLUDE THE FOLLOWING:

½ of 1% Sales Tax on New Cars, which the State Tax Commission Estimates at	$320,000.00
Highway Patrol Fines	188,152.41
2% Sales Tax on accessories and parts, which we estimate the industry has paid into the State approximately	250,000.00
Motor Carrier—Public Service Com.	3,838.58
Motor Carrier—Tax Commission	206,027.12
Probate Judges	292,554.22
	$ 1,260,572.33

AND YOU HAVE ALSO—

Cottonseed Being Graded This Fall

Auburn, Ala.—Much of the cotton seed produced and marketed in Alabama this year can, for the first time, be sampled and graded under supervision of the United States Department of Agriculture, J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, said today.

At the present time, the Battle Laboratory in Montgomery is the only known testing laboratory and samples may be sent there for grading and sampling.

In Georgia, where marketing of seed in the early areas gets under way in August, the major portion of crushers already have entered into voluntary agreements to buy cottonseed from the 1938 crop on the basis of the United States Standard grades. These agreements provide that each lot of seed purchased by a cooperating mill shall be sampled by a bonded and licensed sampler, and graded by a licensed cottonseed chemist. Federal inspectors will supervise the sampling and grading.

Supervised sampling and grading of cottonseed was inaugurated by the department last year in the Mississippi Valley where samples representing approximately 1,500,000 tons of cottonseed were handled under federal supervision during the 1937-38 season. The work is being extended to the Southeastern States this year by request of mill operators in the seaboard areas. The states in which the work is being extended this year are Georgia, Alabama, Florida, North Carolina, Virginia, and South Carolina.

he wonders why so many other customers go to the other store where the prices are no lower, and the merchandise no better.

There is one thing about the other store, though. It's well lighted, and the customers can see what they're buying. They also see many other things they hadn't thought of buying when they entered, but are reminded to buy because they're in plain sight under plenty of light.

"LIGHT CONDITION" YOUR STORE

Alabama Power Company has in its employ 23 lighting advisors, who, with the aid of a little instrument called a "sight meter," gladly will help you determine if the lighting in your home, school, office or factory, can be improved. ### U. D. C.

The David Lindsay Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution held the first meeting of the season on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. W. J. Kennerly.

Constitution Day is always observed at the first meeting. The chapter was very fortunate this year in having Dr. Eastman of the Alabama College history department present an interesting and worthwhile discussion of the constitution.

Mrs. T. H. Napier is state vice-regent and also state chairman of printing and publications. In the capacity of the latter office, Mrs. Napier had charge of editing the state year book. The new year book was presented to the chapter and the members congratulated Mrs. Napier on her fine work.

Mrs. R. E. Bowdon, Jr., of Calera, and prospects for several other new members started the year off with renewed enthusiasm.

FASHION NEWS

"The hoop-skirt achieved a feminine glamour and allure that has never been approximated since," says Adrian, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer fashion designer.

"The hoop-skirt disguises many a fault, and gives a grace of movement and dignity which, with the modern woman, has with very few exceptions, disappeared into limbo," he continued.

"That which is hidden is intriguing, whether it be in clothes or in masked faces. The swaying motion of the hoop, the necessity for negotiating the doorways with circumspection makes for a light, airy step that has been lost with the advent of modern clothes.

"The masculine cry may be for a return to the hoop-skirt, but modern civilization would be revolutionized. It might easily mean a return to the horse-and-buggy era, because no hoop-skirt could negotiate the modern airplane or automobile.

"A return to a modified hoop-skirt would be ideal for the hostess who indulges in formal parties and teas at home, where there would be no necessity for her to trouble about conveyances. In the modern garden or drawing room, there is a definite spot for old-fashioned glamour and grace."

The officers for the year are: Regent, Mrs. W. J. Kennerly; Vice Regent, Mrs. H. D. LeBaron; Secretary, Mrs. E. H. Wills; Treasurer, Mrs. T. H. Napier; Registrar, Mrs. O. R. Burns; Historian, Dr. W. A. Peck; and Chaplain, Mrs. Willis Lyman.

This meeting was attended by all local members and three out-of-town members. The program for the year, planned by Mrs. H. D. LeBaron and Dr. W. A. Peck, will center around general pioneer conditions. The meeting was adjourned after a social hour.

Cornered by Lion, Woman Cows Him With Light Beam Till Help Arrives

CHASED and cornered by a mountain lion on a California ranch, Mrs. Mary Alexander, of San Ardo, Calif., owes her life to a light with which she kept the beast at bay until help arrived.

Mrs. Alexander had spent the day at a neighbor's rodeo and, riding home after dusk, dismounted to open a gate. Her mare had been "acting skittish," she said, but she attributed this to eagerness to get home. As Mrs. Alexander swung the gate open, the mare bolted and disappeared.

That meant a hike to a corral, about a half mile away, where there was a telephone connected with the ranch house. Mrs. Alexander set out to telephone for a lift home. She had got within a few hundred feet from the corral when a blood-curdling cry rent the air. She recognized it instantly as the cry of a mountain lion.

"I whirled around," said Mrs. Alexander, "and looked straight into two eyes like live coals. How close they were I don't know—I turned and ran for the corral. When I reached the place where the telephone was, the lion came close, as if he were going to spring. I grabbed the telephone and began grinding the crank. The noise frightened the beast, and he retreated a few feet.

"Even as I rang, I had no hope that help could reach me in time. Then I saw a flashlight on the telephone box. I picked it up, determined that when the lion attacked me, I would try to use it as a weapon. I pressed the switch and played the beam of light on my enemy.

"Instantly the lion snarled and backed away, blinking and shifting about to get away from the glare of the light. Whenever I relaxed my vigilance for an instant the beast quickly advanced again. This continued until he finally heard the approaching ranchers, when he fled. If I hadn't known that all the ranch flashlights were kept loaded with fresh batteries and that I could depend upon this one to continue working, I'm afraid I would have lost my nerve. And if the light had failed for any reason, I'm sure that the men from the ranch would have had their trip for nothing, because that lion meant business."

Mrs. Alexander learned later that her mare had arrived home, sweating and excited, after bolting at the gate. She undoubtedly had sensed the presence of the lion in the neighborhood.

Willie Gould spent the week-end with relatives in Columbiana.

FUMIGATION WILL CONTROL WEEVILS

Auburn, Ala.—With fall comes the ever-present problem of protecting corn, peas, and beans from weevils so that they can be saved for planting next spring. Fumigation with carbon disulphide is the best known method of keeping this weevil damage to a minimum, says J. M. Robinson, head of the Zoology-entomology department, Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Fumigation depends on the tightness of the crib or store room. If the room is not tight and cannot be made tight to prevent the escape of gas, then small quantities of the product should be fumigated by using a large box or barrel that can be covered.

Determine the number of cubic feet in the container, crib, or store room. Make the room or container as air-tight as possible. Pour carbon disulphide on sacks spread over the pile of seed. Apply at the rate of one pint to 60 gallons if a barrel is used, and from eight to 15 pounds if a bin, crib, or store room is used, depending upon the tightness of the room. Close the room or container tightly and do not disturb for 36 hours. Open the room after this time and allow the seed to air out thoroughly. Then store in containers or heavy sacks to keep other weevils out.

If the seed are perfectly dry and mature before fumigation, the feeding qualities or germination will not be injured by the process. The weather should also be fairly warm at the time of fumigation since the carbon disulphide gases are more likely to penetrate the pile of seed in warm or hot weather. Most seed should be fumigated soon after harvest.

The main precaution to take with carbon disulphide is to keep fire of any kind away, because the chemical is highly explosive. Copies of the leaflet giving full particulars on weevil control measures may be obtained by writing to the Alabama Experiment Station and asking for the leaflet "Control of Insects in Stored Grains, Peas and Beans."

Winter Care of Cows Is Important

Auburn, Ala. — Dairying can be made profitable this coming winter if dairymen will take good care of their cows, declares F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist.

Essential points that must be kept in mind if best results are to be obtained from dairying are listed by Mr. Burns as:

1. Well ventilated, dry stables insure good health and good work on the part of the cow.
2. Free access to clean water and salt should be had at least twice daily.
3. Do not require cows to stand in yards or fields on cold rainy days. It takes feed to keep cows warm.
4. Reserve the best feed for fresh cows but do not let dry cows become thin. Cows that are thin at calving time never have a chance to do their best.

LEGUMES BEST CROP FOR PECAN ORCHARD

Young pecan trees grow faster and make heavier yields when the orchard is planted to winter legumes, followed by summer cultivation, says W. A. Ruffin, extension horticulturist, Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Various soil treatments were tried at the United States Pecan Station, Robson, La., under the direction of the Bureau of Plant Industry. Commenting on these experiments Mr. Ruffin said that either Austrian Winter peas or hairy vetch may be used as a winter legume. The summer cultivation should consist of at least three diskings, or enough to control weed growth.

Slightly lower yields were obtained with a winter legume crop followed by a summer intercrop of cotton. Still lower yields were obtained with a winter nonlegume crop followed by summer cultivation. The poorest yields and tree

Lespedeza Sericea Proves Successful Hay Crop at Branch Experiment Farm

SEPTEMBER PLANTED OATS ARE SUCCESS

Belle Mina, Ala.—Fred Stewart, superintendent of the Tennessee Valley sub-station of the Alabama Experiment Station, believes he has proven that oats can be grown successfully in North Alabama. In ten years of tests he has yet to fail in the production of a good crop.

His crop averages 60 bushels to the acre, and at the same time provides an excellent cover for the soil during the winter. He plants Hastings' 100 Bushel, a red rust-proof variety, in September and then in March applies 200 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre. He attributes much of his success to the September planting with the nitrate of soda fertilization coming second in his estimation.

"There is no reason why hundreds of farmers of the state cannot do the same thing, since oats provide feed, protect land, and are fairly inexpensive under the above method of production," according to Mr. Stewart.

growth occurred when grass was allowed to grow in the orchard the year round.

The winter legume, Mr. Ruffin points out, gives the young trees available nitrogen, and clean cultivation in summer prevents other plants from taking moisture from the young trees.

Belle Mina, Ala.—Lespedeza Sericea is one of Alabama's most promising hay crops to take care of the increasing numbers of livestock on the state's farms, believes Fred Stewart, superintendent of the Tennessee Valley branch station of the Alabama Experiment Station.

Mr. Stewart has produced more than 200 tons of hay per acre with this leguminous hay crop. The hay is of extra fine quality and feeding experiments have shown that livestock is exceedingly fond of it. It is produced at very low cost and will grow on most of the soils of the state.

Tests at the Sand Mountain sub-station at Crossville have also resulted in outstanding growth and adaptability of lespedeza sericea as and economical hay to be grown for winter feeding.

County Agent G. B. Phillips of Limestone County says in his estimation this is Alabama's hay crop of the future. With more attention being given in the state to additional livestock this discovery should prove highly beneficial to Alabama farmers.

EXCHANGE OF GOODS IS NEED OF FARMER

Washington, D. C.—"In the United States we have very definitely before us the problem of maintaining a market for our export cotton while at the same time we enable our cotton farmers to live better than they have in the past. More international exchange of goods is probably the principal need of the cotton farmer of the United States," Secretary Wallace of the United States Department of Agriculture stated recently. "But the cotton farmer sees no virtue in putting 8 million bales of cotton on the world market year after year if that means he must accept an unprofitable price

FIVE CASES OF MALARIA IN COUNTY DURING AUGUST

Shelby County was one of the 57 counties from which one or more cases of malaria were reported during the month of August, the State Department of Health announced today, adding that 5 cases were reported during the month from this county.

The ten counties from which no cases of this disease were reported during August are Barbour, Chocotaw, Clay, Cleburne, Coosa, Etowah, Monroe, Pickens, Washington and Winston.

Malaria cases reported from the state as a whole totaled 1,017 in August, as compared with 650 in July and 765 in August, 1937, the State Health Department announced.

of 5 cents a pound for it. There is no gain to the cotton farmer, and none to the country either, in the long run, in destroying the hills of the South by overplowing merely to supply the cotton exporters of the United States and the cotton importers of the rest of the world with 5-cent cotton.

Electrical "Measuring Spoons"

NO SALESMAN will try to sell you an "electrical measuring spoon" for your kitchen —because it isn't a kitchen gadget. But it does have a lot to do with the dependability of the electric service you use for cooking, lighting, refrigeration and other household, commercial and industrial purposes.

All electrical equipment, even including lamp bulbs, is designed to use a voltage which must be kept within certain limits if the device is to operate satisfactorily. Here is where the "electrical measuring spoon" does its work. Engineers don't call it that, but a "regulator." The ordinary measuring spoon used in the kitchen will hold only so much of the ingredient being measured. The line or generator regulator automatically limits or releases the voltage of the electricity coming from the generator and passing over the wires, so that it is always right for use at the switch in your home or business.

In generator and line regulators you have another example of the development and use by private business, of equipment to make your electric service reliable.

The apparatus shown in the photograph was designed to regulate the voltage on wires carrying 54,000 horsepower.

Note: Since the appearance of the first of these advertisements, we have received requests for copies of the entire series. It is therefore planned, when the series is concluded, to reproduce them in booklet form. Interested persons may have complimentary copies of the booklet by writing Dept. 319, Alabama Power Company, Birmingham.

Scouts to Conduct
Campaign in October

Dr. Richard Clarke Foster, president of the University of Alabama, will head the annual campaign for funds for the Black Warrior Council, Boy Scouts of America, which will be conducted throughout the fourteen-county council area in October, according to announcement today by Dr. H. G. Dowling, of Tuscaloosa, council president.

Organization of campaign committees is rapidly nearing completion, with key men in each community of the area being appointed to serve as local drive chairmen and solicitors.

Dr. Foster today issued a strong appeal to citizens of the council area to cooperate in making the campaign a success, in order that Scouting may make a "step forward" throughout the area.

"Other nations of the world," he said, "have resorted to regimentation of youth in order to endocrine them in the principles of various 'isms,' many of which are foreign to our own American ideals of democracy. There is grave danger that some of these foreign 'isms' may infiltrate into our own national life; it is extremely important, if our democracy is to survive, that we educate our young people for living in a democratic society."

"In my opinion, Scouting affords the finest training for manhood and character that exists in America today to complement that of our homes, churches and schools. This program actually works in building character and training for citizenship."

SPORTS

Overconfidence can be blamed in a large measure for the defeat encountered when Montevallo met Thompson High on Friday last. This game for years has been nothing but a one-sided victory for Montevallo—but not so this year—the underdog tore loose from the leash in the second quarter and was not collared for the remainder of the game.

Montevallo scored in the first quarter on a blocked punt and failed to make the extra point. Siluria scored in the second quarter and twice in the fourth period on a pass, an end run and a line plunge respectively.

W. Kent, J. Kent, and George Miller starred for the victors. Raymond Lovelady, Robert Dement, Judge Martin and Berb Williamson were outstanding players for the local squad.

Montevallo will play Verbena in Montevallo Friday, September 30, at 1:15. This should prove a contest well worth seeing.

PRODUCTION NEWS

Robert Donat, having completed his work in "The Citadel," arrived in New York on the Normandie for a brief visit. While here, Donat will visit his father in New England, and then return to his work at the Denham studios in England ... Ben Goetz also arrived on the same boat ... Robert Montgomery left the coast for a six weeks' vacation on his farm at Pawling, New York. He is next scheduled to make "The Earl of Chicago."

"Young Dr. Kildare" has gone into production at the Culver City Studios with Lew Ayres in the title role. The cast includes Lionel Barrymore, Walter Kingsford, Truman Bradley, Emma Dunn, Nat Pendleton, Philip Terry, Roger Converse, Don Castle and Bobs Watson. Harry Bucquet will direct.

Reginald Owen will play the ghost of Jacob Marley in "A Christmas Carol," in which Lionel Barrymore will portray "Scrooge" and Terry Kilburn, "Little Tim" ... Leni Lynn, thirteen-year-old singer, and Ann Morriss, featured player, have signed contracts with M-G-M. ... Richard Thorpe has been assigned to direct the "Wizard of Oz," which will be made in technicolor.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has acquired rights to "Scaramouche," for both the novel and the play by Rafael Sabatini, and will film a talking version. "Scaramouche" was brought to the screen by Metro in 1923, under the direction of Rex Ingram, with a cast headed by Alice Terry, Ramon Navarro, and Lewis Stone.

HEART DISEASE IS CAUSE
OF 3 DEATHS IN COUNTY

Heart disease, chief cause of death in Alabama, was responsible for 3 deaths in Shelby County in July, according to the monthly report prepared by the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health, based upon provisional figures.

Heart disease deaths in the state as a whole totaled 369 in July, bringing to 2,797 the heart disease toll for the first seven months of the year. Provisional vital statistics reports indicate that 4,688 persons succumbed to heart disease in Alabama in 1937, as compared with only 2,632 in 1927.
